KEEN STRUGGLE BEHIND THE SCENES

WEEK-END VOTE CATCHING

CRITICAL MEETING OF W.E.C. BUREAU

COMPROMISE LIKELY

LONDON, JULY 10.

AN AIR OF TENSE EXPECTANCY PREVAILS ON THE EVE OF THE MEETING WHICH WILL DECIDE THE FATE OF THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE. BEHIND THE SCENES A TENSE STRUGGLE IS GOING ON BETWEEN THE GOLD BLOC AND THE NON-GOLD COUNTRIES.

The efforts to gain the support of the Soviet, Mexico and Hungary for the rival policies has provided the animating week-end feature pending to-day's critical meeting of the Bureau.

These are the countries which abstained from voting when the motion for the adjournment of the conference was only evaded by a vote of seven to six, but although their support will be the deciding factor, there are no indications that it has been obtained by either side.

AMERICA HOPEFUL OF NEW PROGRESS

A straight vote on the course of action which the Bureau of the Conference will recommend to the plenary session of the Conference is considered unlikely and the issue, it is thought, is more likely to be a compromise arrangement, thus presenting a unanimous Bureau decision.

Some observers consider that the dollar's approach to parity with sterling may mean that the American delegation will be free to discuss stabilisation sooner than was expected.—Reuter.

ROOSEVELT SATISFIED

New York, July 10. President Roosevelt is said to be quite confident that the World Economic Conference will go forward and has been greatly cheered by the new alignment in London as indicated by the latest developments, according to the Washington correspondents.

They declare that the President's scheme for a higher world price level will not be influenced by the gold bloc combination in Paris, nor is the government disposed to see the countries in question off the gold standard.

FLIGHT FROM DOLLAR

Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State and head of the American delegation in London, is expected to make a constructive statement to the Conference early this week. The Baltimore Sun says that the decline in the dollar is not only attributable to speculators or to governments, but is rather due to national processes meaning nothing less than "a flight from the dollar" on account of the inflation signs.

STABILISATION IN TWO YEARS

The New York Herald-Tribune asserts that no stabilisation of the dollar in terms of gold is to be expected until about the middle of 1935 when U.S. prices will have reached a satisfactory level and the budget will have been balanced.

The formation of a protective alliance by the gold standard countries, in the effort to maintain the value of European currencies in terms of gold, have not dissipated the doubts whether the maintenance of the gold standard is possible.

FRENCH DIFFICULTIES

In some circles it is firmly believed that France, although hold out against financial stringency for very long and it may be recalled that one of the reasons advanced by President Roosevelt for refusing to stabilise was his belief that the gold countries would ultimately be compelled to abandon the metal.

MINISTER'S WARNING

It is significant, therefore, that in the course of a speech at St. Paul's Cathedral to-day, M. Lamoureux, the Minister of the Budget, revealed that if the present Treasury position was favourable, the outlook for 1934 was gloomy.

He pointed out that there were certain receipts in 1933 which would not recur, while expenditure seemed certain to increase. Very stout efforts were necessary if the stability of the franc was to be maintained.—Reuter.

BUSINESS GAINS IN U.S.A.

Business gains through the United States during the last couple of months have been of a very definite nature, according to a statement by the New York Board of Trade.

The Board has made a careful investigation through various organisations in over 100 cities and the replies indicate that real, important progress has been made towards business recovery throughout the entire country.

The president of the Board, Mr. Percy Magnus, stated to-day: "The business depression is over and we are well on the way towards recovery."

The survey showed an improvement in the numbers employed, in wages and in the volume of sales.

An exception was recorded from Maine and Michigan, owing to closed banks and wheat crop failures.

The report says that a continuation of the upward trend in business is likely during the remainder of the year and that belated buying may prevent the usual set-back during the summer months. In the Autumn, there should be a considerable improvement in many branches of trade.—Reuter.

GOLD STANDARD DOOMED

London, July 9. "The Gold Standard is doomed," declares the diplomatic correspondent of the Sunday Express, who asserts that the discussions in Paris yesterday showed that the gold effort to keep the world on gold was hopeless.

France refused to consider the suggestion of the weaker gold

HITLER'S PROUD BOAST

THE NAZI REGIME ESTABLISHED

EDUCATION TO BEGIN

Berlin, July 10.

The first task of the political power in Germany has ended with the disappearance of the Catholic Centre Party, proudly declared Herr Hitler last night in an address to seventy thousand Nazi storm-troops at Dortmund.

The Chancellor of the Reich added:

Gigantic tasks still confront us, but we shall master them. No-body can resist us."

The first task of the Nazi regime is the education of the individual German for the new State. This task will now begin. Every German must pass through a practical schooling.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The second task will be to conquer unemployment, which is on a scale bigger than ever before in the history of the Reich. It is, in fact, the biggest problem with which the State has ever been confronted. Herr Hitler claimed that he had reduced the army of unemployed by two millions in the last six months, and the Government would continue its campaign until the problem had been solved.

The Nazis, he said, would restore the consumptive capacity of the German people and reinvigorate trade and industry.

100,000 PRISONERS

Meanwhile, it is reliably stated that as a result of the suppressive activities of the Government, there are at least one hundred thousand people now locked up in concentration camps in different parts of Germany.

The list of prisoners includes well-known scientists, members of the medical profession, and politicians who declined to bend their wills to Herr Hitler's.

Hundreds of Republicans, although unwilling to leave the Fatherland, are fugitives in Germany.—Reuter.

KIDNAPPING OF JACOB FACTOR

BANDITS' DEMAND G$75,000 RANSOM

The big sum of G$75,000 is being demanded as ransom for the release of Mr. Jacob Factor, the financier, who was kidnapped last week. This is revealed by his son.

Mr. Factor, who is known as "John Jake the Banker," started life as a west-side thief and rose to become a successful financier.

ARMY ABSENTEES

ON BLUE FUNNEL LINER

TWO ARRESTED IN HONGKONG

Two men who were arrested aboard the Blue Funnel liner Proteslaus on Friday have since been identified as Privates Grundy and Hall, absentees from the 2nd Batt. East Lancashire Regiment.

The East Lancshires, who are coming to Hongkong in the next troopship, are at present stationed in Shanghai.

Privates Grundy and Hall were apparently discovered aboard the Proteslaus soon after the vessel had sailed from Shanghai. On arrival in Hongkong, the master communicated with the Water Police, who arrested them.

Later, they were identified by the local military authorities as absentees and were handed over to military custody.

CHINESE AVIATOR IN JODHPUR

FLIGHT FROM BERLIN TO NANKING

New Delhi, July 9. The Chinese aviator, Mr. Sun Tung-kang, who is making a solo flight from Berlin to Nanking, arrived at Jodhpur, to-day, making a perfect landing to complete one of the most hazardous legs of his long journey.

THE WEST RIVER

The level of the West River at Shanghai is 22.3 feet on Saturday. Other Kwangtung rivers are rising.

SOVIET BORDER INCIDENT

ALLEGED ATTACKS ON SHIPPING

JAPAN MOVING TROOPS

Harbin, July 10.

Alleged attacks by Soviet frontier guards upon Manchukuo shipping has led to the adoption of counter-measures by the authorities.

Three gunboats and three troop transports are leaving for the Sungari Delta and two gunboats and two troop transports, carrying Japanese forces, are leaving for the Ussuri River.

It is reported that the object of this movement of troops and warships is to protect Manchukuo shipping from attacks by U.S.S.R. Red guardsmen.

It will be recalled that last week a report reached Harbin announcing that the steamer Tungshing had been held up, her cargo confiscated and ten emigre Russian guards captured. It was intimated that strong action would be taken if the report was confirmed.—Reuter.

GRAN CHACO WAR RESUMED

2,000 CASUALTIES IN 24 HOURS

La Paz, Bolivia, July 6. Cannons were roaring again to-day in the Gran Chaco area despite the fact that a commission of the League of Nations is understood to be en route here to arrange for the cessation of hostilities and a permanent settlement of the dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay.

In the agreement at Geneva to accept League of Nations efforts to settle the dispute, neither Bolivia nor Paraguay agreed at the time to cease military operations immediately. A special commission will attempt to do that.

Learning that the Paraguayans were preparing an offensive, the Bolivian forces decided to check it with an offensive of their own. It was said here to-day, the battle has been raging nearly 24 hours and the Paraguayan casualties were announced here as nearly 2,000 men.

The Government's communiqué is fighting with the Paraguayans.

A DASH FOR SAFETY

PLANE SEARCH GOING ON

NOT YET BACK TO CIVILISATION

IDENTITY NOT KNOWN

Shanghai, July 10.

According to Japanese reports, two of the three officers of the Butterfield and Swire s.s. Nanchang who were kidnapped some months ago, have escaped from their captors.

The source of the report is not at all clear, as the story indicates that the two men have not yet succeeded in getting into contact with civilisation.

The identity of the men who have escaped cannot, therefore, be ascertained, although it is stated that, benefiting from the relaxation of vigilance by their band captors, two of the prisoners made a dash for safety and succeeded in getting away.

AEROPLANES SENT

The Japanese authorities are now stated to have sent aeroplanes to reconnoitre the countryside in the vicinity of the known whereabouts of the bandit camp with the object of landing assistance to the officers—and guiding them to safety.

The men who were held as prisoners by the bandits were Messrs. Clifford Johnson, the chief officer of the Nanchang, and Messrs. W. E. Hargrave and A. Blue, two of the engineers.

THREE MONTHS PRISONERS

The outrage in which they were captured took place at Newchuan on March 23, when their ship was boarded and they were carried off. Subsequently, their captors were attacked by another gang of desperadoes and they found themselves in fresh hands as a result.—Reuter.

PRESENTATION AT TAIKOO

RETIREMENT OF MR. J. RUSSELL

On his retirement from Taikoo Dockyard and Engineering Co., Mr. J. Russell was, on Friday, presented with a portable typewriter and wrist watch by Mr. E. Greig, on behalf of the staff.

Mr. Greig, before presenting the gifts, commented on the valuable services rendered to Taikoo by Russell during his 10½ years' association with the firm, and particularly thanked him for the work he had done in connection with the Taikoo Club.

Mr. Russell, thanking Mr. Greig and the staff for their gifts, conferred upon him by being a Life Member of the Taikoo Club, expressed his appreciation of the great assistance to him when he opened his private hotel and the watch would always remind him of his many friends at Taikoo.

He also appreciated the fact that the typewriter would be a great assistance to him when he opened his private hotel and the watch would always remind him of his many friends at Taikoo.

The Argyle Hotel is the new hotel which Mr. Russell is opening.

ATLANTIC FLIGHTS

LINDBERGH AND MOLLISONS

AMERICAN COUPLE TAKE OFF

New York, July 9. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh took off to-day on the first stage of a flight to Greenland. They are making the journey by easy stages and their first hop will be at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The object of the flight is the carrying out of a survey for the Pan-American Airways for the purpose of discovering the best route across the Atlantic for a passenger and mail seaplane service.

Colonel Lindbergh will search for suitable landing-grounds and may continue the flight to Iceland and to Denmark provided conditions are favourable and the early stages of the survey produce quick results.

Mrs. Lindbergh will take turns in piloting and navigating their machine.

MOLLISONS HELD UP

New York is now awaiting with interest news of the start from Pennine Sands, Wales, of Mr. and Mrs. Mollison, the British fliers, who are awaiting favourable weather conditions for a nonstop flight to New York.

The start was originally scheduled for Friday last when the moon was full but bad weather necessitated a postponement.

It is expected that they will take off immediately; reports from the Atlantic show that reasonably good weather is to be expected. They are using a big Gipsy-Dragon machine with cruising range of 6,000 miles.—Reuter.

THREE HOME RUNS BY RUTH

GIVE YANKEES TWO VICTORIES

New York, July 10. Babe Ruth hit three home runs in a double-header against Detroit to-day. The New York Yankees won both games. Washington were also winners. In the National League, the Giants suffered a double reverse. Reuter.

SOVIET INDUSTRY.

LARGE TEXTILE FACTORIES TO BE ERECTED

Moscow, July 9. Spinning and weaving factories, with an estimated yearly output of over 30 million yards of textiles, will be established at Krasnodar, in Asia Minor, to plant cotton by Soviet specialists are carried out.

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL MCCELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONICA O'DARE, 29 and beautiful, is in love with DAN CALDON, heir to a local fortune. They are secretly engaged. BILL O'DARE worries his mother by planning to marry ANNE GILLEN who has not yet got her divorce.

SANDRA LAWRENCE, who pretends to be Monica's friend, is trying to win Dan from her. Sandra discharges two servants and they try to kidnap her. She escapes, Dan's mother and sister plan a trip to a Wyoming dude ranch. Sandra is to accompany them. Dan does not want to go but finally is persuaded.

MISS ANSTICE COREY, an old friend of the O'Dares, inherits $20,000 and asks Monica to go to Europe with her. CHARLES EUSTACE, lawbreaker to town, buys Monica attention. She is not interested, waiting and waiting for a letter from Dan.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Sandra said, "You've been awfully sweet to me, Danny." Her voice broke a little on the words. She was leaning against the fireplace, the sweep of gray stone behind her throwing into high relief the perfect contour of her honey coloured head. The flames from the big logs threw shadows on the blue velvet lounging pajamas she wore and Dan thought, quite idly, that she made a graceful picture. He was in riding clothes, casual and smartly western even to the big handkerchief knotted about his throat. They were alone—except for the Chinese servants. His mother and the rest of the party had gone to see a picture show at Benning, eight miles away. "It's all right," he said rather awkwardly. "Glad to do anything

I could. You had a rotten time of it and you've been a good little soldier."

"Do you honestly think so, Dan?" Her eyes shone. This was the praise she wanted above all else.

"Of course I do," Dan reflected that it was something of an effort, supplying Sandra with the moral courage she needed. Only this morning his mother had said to him firmly, "you've simply got to pour confidence into that poor nervous child, son. She's splendid but she had a shock and it is our duty to see her through this bad time."

Ever since the kidnapping Sandra had been having "bad headaches" and "wretched nights." It was not, she said with a charmingly patient smile, at all like her to go to pieces this way. The others agreed and pointed out how brave she had been through the dreadful experience itself. Now—well, Sandra needed Dan to lean on, needed him at her side when they rode. She seemed perfectly content, perfectly happy when he was murmuring in her ear, when they sat at table, side by side.

"You're awfully good for me," she would say softly with a sideways glance at him. Dan felt, in a puzzled way, that he was committing himself to something without knowing what it was all about.

"Sure you didn't want to see that picture?" he said now, hoping to change the subject.

"No, honestly," Sandra said with pretty eagerness. "I'm perfectly content—perfectly—just to sit here and talk. Isn't it cosy?"

Dan agreed, stuffing his pipe and settling himself in the big leather chair opposite.

"Just like," giggled the girl in blue velvet, "just like old married folks." She shrugged her shoulders and murmured delicately, "Honestly, Dan, I don't know what's got into me lately. I—somehow I seem to be changing. This time last year I thought of nothing but tearing around. I was in Monte Carlo in October—having the most wonderful time. And now—"

Dan prompted her. "And now what?"

"Well, I seem to be perfectly contented with the simplest sort of things. Books and good friends—"

Her limpid gray eyes besought him to understand.

Dan, sensing dangerous ground, said gruffly, "What about Monte Carlo? Did you have a good time there? Father wouldn't take us when we were over. Said it was a gambling hell and he didn't want us to go near it."

"Oh, Dan, how quaint!" Her laugh rippled. "I can't imagine—"

She broke off suddenly to say quickly that of course his father was a dear—so upright—so charming but Dan had to admit he was a bit old-fashioned.

"I'd love to show you the place," she said with enthusiasm. "Oh, the times I had on the Riviera last autumn! It was all too marvellous. There was a count who rushed me frantically. Honestly, Danny, I almost took him up. He was the best looking thing! And there were two Englishmen—don't you adore the British?" she broke off to inquire.

"Can't say I do," said the man. "Considering that my forebears came from County Sligo, I'm not so crazy about them."

"Well, I do—simply adore them. You're rather like an English country gentleman yourself, Dan. Big and taciturn—and handsome."

"Oh, cut it, won't you?" growled Dan, pleased in spite of himself. Sandra's light laugh rippled again.

"I never saw such a boy," she declared. "Just a great big bear. That's what he is!"

Dan grinned, reflecting it wasn't so bad to have Sandra talk that way to him when there was no one else around. Honestly she was kind of cute when you got right down to it. Entertaining. And she didn't seem to have any meads—

—was always bright and charming. As his mother had said, Sandra had had a great many advantages. She could chatter French in a way to excite Dan's envy and alarm since he had never mastered the college course in the language. She intimated that her German was excellent also and that she managed to make herself perfectly understood in Italian. Dan wouldn't know about that. But it did seem that Sandra did everything well. She rode and swam like a streak," Dan said. She played a marvellous game of contract. She could sing. She had taken tap dancing and fencing lessons in New York last year. No doubt about it, the man who married Sandra would have a beautiful and accomplished wife. That was the way Dan still thought of her—as some other man's prospective wife. Never for an instant had he seriously considered her as his own.

She left his pulses unstirred. All her pretty ways, her exquisite clothes, her charming imperiousness were lost on him in that respect. As an onlooker he admired her performance quite impersonally. But it was Monica, he reflected, whom he really loved. Monica with her bright hair, her way of looking at you—of telling you how she felt about something. Yes, it was Monica to whom his heart belonged. Dan had, somehow, never expected to care about any girl as he did about her. He had been cynical about love. Monica had changed all that.

"She's so darned sweet," Dan thought to himself now, forgetting the beautiful girl here beside him in the intimacy of the warm room. Firelight, setting, all were lost on him.

"What did you say, Dan?"

"I—uh—I was just thinking." He tapped his pipe against the hearth, pretending it needed cleaning. Sandra gave him a swift, appraising glance. Then she said in a low voice, "There's something I've been wanting to talk to you about."

The man raised his eyes, watchful, guarded. "Shoot."

Sandra shrugged her shoulders. "It's just that, well, I like so our being friends that I hope a certain person won't misunderstand."

"Who'd you mean?"

Sandra gave him a limpid look, all girlish ingenuousness. "You big silly. I mean Monica, of course."

Dan drawled, "Why should Monica mind?" He had to be genuinely on his guard now lest he give the whole show away. Sandra was not to know how he felt about

MA DECLINES

REFUSES POST ON NANKING STAFF.

Shanghai, July 9. Interviewed by Reuter this morning, General Ma Chan-shan stated that he had no intention of accepting the appointment as a member of the Military Commission, which was announced at Nanking yesterday.

He declared that he would not accept any appointment before definite measures have been worked out for the reorganization of his forces in the North and for the relief of war refugees from Manchuria.

General Ma said he would leave for North China shortly to inspect his troops.

REV. A. D. STEWART SAYS FAREWELL.

FUNCTIONS ON BOTH SIDES OF HARBOUR

The Lee Hysan Hall of St. Paul's Girls' College was crowded to capacity on Saturday night, when a presentation in the form of a cheque and a framed group photograph was made to the Rev. Arthur Dudley Stewart, M.A., who is leaving the Colony for England on Sunday next, after 27 years in China.

The Rev. Paul S. F. T'so presided in the absence from the Colony of the Bishop of Victoria, and representatives seated on the dais for the presentation, were Miss E. Kotewall (St. Paul's Girls' College), Rev. Lee Kau-yan (Chinese Church Body), Rev. E. Y. P. Lee (St. Paul's Church), Rev. E. W. L. Martin (St. Stephen's Boys' College), Mr. Wong Yew-kung (Staff of St. Paul's College), Mr. Chan Titi-yat and Mr. John Poon (past and present pupils of St. Paul's College, respectively).

The proceedings opened with a hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds," after which a prayer was offered by the Rev. E. Y. P. Lee. A splendid programme of entertainment was provided by the following:—St. Stephen's College orchestra, under Mr. F. A. Britton; St. Paul's Church choir who rendered the anthem, "God so loved the world"; St. Paul's College old boys, present students of St. Paul's College, and St. Paul's College old boys, present students of St. Paul's College, and St. Paul's Church members' string band.

The Chairman, addressing the assembly in Chinese, said they had gathered that night to say farewell to one who was a friend, a relative and a teacher. Mr. Stewart, he said, was leaving Hongkong for three reasons. He had been called to work with the Church at Home, to his wife and family, and he felt the need, having spent the best part of his life in China. For those three reasons, they could not blind him to stay here.

He announced that their departing colleague would officiate at the Holy Communion service at St. Paul's Church at 8 a.m. on Sunday, and also preach his farewell sermon in the Church at the 11 o'clock service.

The speaker requested Mr. Stewart to carry with him the kind regards of the Chinese Church to old friends in Bishop Lander, Bishop Duppy, Archdeacon Barnett and others. He hoped Mr. Stewart would appeal to the younger generation in England to come out to China to help forward the work of the Christian Church, and that he would get into contact with students who are studying in England, and help them. Mr. Stewart would take with him the prayers of the Chinese people.

Representatives Speak. On behalf of the students, old boys and staff of St. Paul's College, and St. Paul's Church, respectively, Messrs. John Poon, Chan Titi-yat, Wong Yew-kung and S. C. Yeung, spoke in eulogistic terms of the work done by Mr. Stewart.

Replying in English, the Rev. A. D. Stewart said he felt there were many things he could do but had not done yet. He had sent a letter to his wife at Home in which he said his chances were over as he was leaving Hongkong. Mr. Stewart replied and stated that their chances of helping were not over, because although they may be in England they could still help the work in Hongkong.

The speakers, that night, he said, had reminded him of two babies born nearly twenty-five years ago—St. Paul's Boys' College and St. Paul's Church. One of the big events that stood up in his mind was the first Christmas service and social, when the gathering was so small that one room in the Bishop's house sufficed for the party. To-day, even the Lee Hysan Hall would not be too great. The real thanks for it all was thanks to God. It was also due to the pushing spirit of the congregation that St. Paul's Church had expanded.

"I carry away some very beautiful memories of the Church, and one of the memories that will never fade away is the memory of this evening," said Mr. Stewart. "First of all, I shall never forget how many of you came here in a hot summer's day, and secondly, how patiently you have listened to the speeches. I express great appreciation for all those who have helped to make this evening a success. I shall never forget the very excellent concert and entertainment. I especially appreciate the St. Stephen's College band, who came a long distance from Stanley and who gave such a splendid programme.

Concluding, Mr. Stewart said that prayer would draw them closer together, and he wanted them to pray for his return again to Hongkong. "Hongkong is really my home," he added. "I am going away from my home and I want to come back one day."

Following the singing of the hymn, "God be with you till we meet again," the Benediction was pronounced, in Chinese, by the Rev. Mr. Stewart, after which the gathering dispersed.

MATTERN'S FLIGHT.

SOVIETS SENDING HELP TO REPAIR MACHINE

Moscow, July 8. Lieutenant James J. Matern, the 29-year-old American airman, who disappeared after leaving Kharbarovsk on June 16, on his round-the-world flight, and who was reported safe at Anadirchukotka, a small Siberian town, yesterday, has now explained the reasons for his long silence.

Lieut. Matern states that he was forced down in a desolate waste, 100 miles from Anadirchukotka, owing to the breaking down of his engine. Three weeks elapsed before he was able to transmit a telegram from the nearest office.—Reuter.

Machine Smashed?

San Francisco, July 8. According to a short wave radio message picked up by a U.S. Coastguard cutter, Lt. Matern's machine was completely smashed during his forced landing.—Reuter.

Soviet Helps.

Moscow, July 9. Two powerful Soviet aeroplanes are en route to Anadir in order to assist Matern.

The aeroplanes are carrying mechanics who should be able to repair the American aviator's machine.

Four steamers that recently left Vladivostok for Behring Strait have also been ordered to help Matern.—Reuter.

THE KING'S CUP.

CAPT DE HAVILLAND WINS AIR TROPHY

London, July 9. Captain de Havilland, using a Leopard Moth of his own design, to-day won the King's Cup air race around England, beating Flight Lt. Edwards in one of the most thrilling finishes yet seen, by thirty feet.

The race started and ended at Hatfield and was, for the first time, a knockout competition in four rounds, each of which was over a 200 mile course without landing.—Reuter.

DAIREN CONFERENCE.

NOTHING SIGNED

Peking, July 9. It is confirmed by foreign sources that nothing has been signed at the Dairen Conference, the arrangements being only verbal.

The arrangements reached provide that one-third of General Li Chi-chun's Manchukuo irregulars be incorporated into the Luantung Peace Preservation Corps and the rest be dispersed.

The Chinese at present run trains regularly to Tangshan and when the Japanese and Manchukuo troops are withdrawn to the Great Wall, the Chinese will undertake to run a train service as far as Shanhai-kuan.—Reuter.

ing Chaplain to the Forces, gave an address at the Military Parade service, held in St. John's Cathedral yesterday morning. At matins, in the Cathedral, he delivered a farewell sermon, and also at the evening service at St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon. Immediately afterwards a reception was held in the Church Hall, where a presentation, in the form of a cheque, was made to the departing pastor as a token of appreciation for his services.

Addressing the gathering, the Vicar, Rev. W. Walton Rogers, made reference to the impending departure of Mrs. J. W. Baldwin and her son, Brian, both of whom had served the Church loyally; Brian being their leading chorister. They were sorry to say good-bye, and he wished them every success.

Mr. Stewart, he said, first came out to work in Hongkong under the Church Missionary Society in 1905. He had done wonderful work in St. Paul's College. The students all love him, and his departure would mean a great loss to them. Mr. Stewart, he said, never said "no" to a call of service. He was a very faithful friend of St. Andrew's and always a welcome visitor. He wished him well in his new sphere of work in England.

Makes Presentation.

Making the presentation on behalf of those present, Mr. J. W. Baldwin, Vicar of Warden, said Mr. Stewart's departure was a great loss to the diocese. Although they were losing his services, they would still retain his friendship.

Replying, Mr. Stewart said he had always taken a tremendous interest in St. Andrew's Church. When preaching in the Cathedral he trembled with fear, but he always felt at home when speaking from St. Andrew's pulpit. He thought it must be the congregation. He had had a very happy time in Hongkong, and he hoped he would return when opportunity presented itself.

The singing of the Doxology, and a prayer by the vicar, brought to a close a happy gathering.

London's
Biggest
Hold-upALL TRAMS STOP:
THOUSANDS STRANDED

London, June 19.
Thousands of people were held up last night all over London and Greater London by the biggest tram stoppage ever known.

Shortly after 10 o'clock a failure of the electric current brought the whole of the London County Council tram service to a standstill.

Trams suddenly stopped and the lights went out.

At intervals of 100 yds. trams were lined up from Wimbledon to Clapham and Tooting to Wandsworth, Brixton, Mitcham and Streatham.

The stoppage was complete over most of South London from 10.10 until 10.35, when the engineers succeeded in getting current through again.

Hundreds Walk

More difficulty was experienced in North London, where the current failure was intermittent, and after 11 o'clock many cars had not resumed service.

Inquiries were flashed in to the Council's great power station at Greenwich from all points on the system.

By eleven o'clock most of the trams were running again, but the traffic dislocation was very great.

In some outlying districts, however, "derelict" trams, empty and in darkness, were standing at intervals along the roads late last night.

Hundreds of people who had waited for late cars resigned themselves to walking.

Sprints to Stations

Here are some of the exciting scenes during the great hold-up: Crowds stampeded for buses, and there was a rush for taxis. Suburban dwellers left trams and sprinted for railway stations. In the Kingsway the suddenly darkened tramcars in the already dim tunnel heightened the strangeness.

Passengers were asked to keep their seats while inquiries were made.

The Underground traffic multiplied to many times the normal during the hold-up.

Power Station Breakdown?

An official of the L.C.C. tram service stated just before 11 p.m.:

"Reports have come through from districts all over London stating that the current has failed. It is impossible to discover the reason for the failure at present.

"As far as we know no damage has been done."

The stoppage is believed to have been caused by a breakdown at the Greenwich power station.

Sufferings
In The
Desert130 PEOPLE DIE
FROM THIRST

Nairobi.
One hundred and thirty men, women and children have died from thirst in the desert areas of Italian Transjuba.

The victims of this terrible tragedy are natives who had decided to leave their homes in Italian Somaliland to return to the British Flag under which they had formerly lived.

It appears that a section of the Somalis, living in the Kismayu area of Italian Somaliland, who before the war were British subjects, decided to settle in the northern frontier district of Kenya.

A large number left with their families and cattle, travelling across the country in the direction of the Tana River.

Some of them reached British territory, where they reported that, while crossing Italian country, the party had divided.

A search party for the remainder was immediately organized and eventually some survivors were found. They were in a state of collapse but were able to relate the tragic fate of their companions, 130 of whom had succumbed after the party had lost its way in the desert and run out of water. —Reuter.

18 POLICEMEN IN
A MAZE

"LOST" BURGLAR HUNT

FUGITIVE'S CANAL
BATH

The Swan Inn at Ash Vale, known affectionately to hundreds of thousands of Army men all over the world as "Tupper's," was the scene of an unrehearsed comedy when a would-be burglar and his pursuers became involved in an overgrown maze attached to the inn.

In the cool bar, which has so often resounded to the tread of military feet, the proprietor related told what happened, while faded brown photographs of "Tupper," with his luxuriant fringe of snowy whisker beamed down from the walls.

About half-past eleven the proprietor's wife saw an unknown man hanging around the inn and called her husband, who shouted and gave chase, while she telephoned to the police. The burglar ran violently into a gate—and dived into the dark waters of the Basingstoke canal.

He clambered out as speedily as possible, and ran down an alley behind a hedge, the inn proprietor trying to head him off. The burglar, still dripping, then retreated into the maze, with the object of baffling his pursuer. In this he was entirely successful the only drawback being that he also baffled himself, and could not find his way out.

ARMED WITH A BOTTLE.

The maze is a natural one formed of light hedges, now so overgrown as to form virtual tunnels. To follow the burglar into it alone was a dangerous course, as he was armed with a pint bottle.

Passing motorists were stopped and illuminated the maze with their headlights. Policemen to the number of eighteen arrived from near-by police stations, and surrounded the maze, in which the burglar could be heard crashing round through the undergrowth, as he explored every avenue.

The police then closed on the centre. Or, at least, that was the idea. Unfortunately, the policemen also became lost, and the affair began to look like a rehearsal for the Aldershot Tattoo. Awe-struck, the non-combatants stood round in the eerie glare of the headlights while wild shouts arose from the eighteen benighted policemen as they milled round in the labyrinth. It was some hours before they could be extricated, by which time it was discovered that the burglar had escaped.

Inventor
Of Stiff Collars

A WOMAN!

When men curse the inventor of stiff collars, they are cursing a woman—though doubtless few of them know it.

She was an American, Mrs. Hannah Montague, the wife of a blacksmith.

She washed her husband's shirts—and in doing so noticed that the collar was nearly always more dirty than the shirt itself.

So, with a sudden inspiration, she cut off the collars and put bands round the necks.

Then she starched the collars. They stayed clean longer.

Mr. Montague was agreeably surprised. He told his friends.

That was a century ago.

A tablet on a house in Troy, New York, still bears witness to the memory of the inventor of stiff collars.—Reuter.

KEENER STUDENTS

ONE EFFECT OF THE DEPRESSION

Evanston, Minn.

The American college student has benefited by the depression. He is studying harder says the President of Northwestern University.

He believes that student life has been bettered to a marked degree the last two years.

Lafayette have decreased in number. The University has taken on a business-like attitude.

In general students seem to be less reckless and more considerate, he says. They are acquiring habits of industry and thrift, that will be of advantage after graduation.

The quality of incoming freshmen last September was the highest we have ever had. Indications are that the entering class in September will be equally high," he added.

"The greatest drop in attendance has been in our course in commerce. Our greatest increase has been in our course in social science." —Reuter.

"A PURE
UNDILUTED
JOY—"

"The Vauxhall Cadet is a powerful, roomy and comfortable car and it possesses two obvious advantages. One, a silent second, must appeal alike to expert and novice. The other, the Synchro-Mesh gear changing is to novices, like myself, a pure undiluted joy."

So writes this Synchro-Mesh enthusiast. Try it for yourself—you cannot make a bad "change!" Smooth acceleration, decisive braking, steering that is effortless and ample power—all these you will find in the Vauxhall Cadet.

You will use less petrol than you'd expect. Modern lines, riding comfort, luxurious coachwork, tasteful colour schemes, headlights and radiator flutes in gleaming chromium, mark the Cadet as being a distinctly different car.

Prices from £295. Arrange for a trial run.

AMERICA GETS
A WARNING

To the several warnings that the United States is forcing the recovery pace to a dangerous degree has to be added that of Brigadier-General Johnson, America's "Recovery Dictator." President Roosevelt has accomplished his objective of restoring confidence rather too efficiently. The lessons of adversity are already forgotten. A great speculative boom is occurring in industry, as well as upon the stock exchange. Caution is no longer in the dictionary. A business revival has been started upon insecure foundations. Goods are being produced in anticipation of a demand which has not yet been created. On the contrary, wage levels are lagging far behind the increase in commodity prices and the effect clearly must be to restrict the all-round purchasing power of the workers, to narrow the field over which their expenditure may be spread. A few more of the little luxuries of existence must be forewarned to meet the rising costs of necessities. If the Capitalists do not soon realise their error, they will smash themselves. The old abuses are rearing their heads again in defiance of the industrial control measure, which has not yet had time to exercise any such control as it contemplates. Altogether, the situation is not a happy augury for the success of the measure. If the industrialists, who are expected to co-operate in the ideal of distributing the benefits of spreading activity equitably among capital, labour and the consumer, are so quick to take advantage of an opportunity to forestall its purposes, what reliance is to be placed in them when Brigadier-General Johnson has prepared his programme? Once again it has to be recognised that the root difficulty in the task before those seeking to place the world's economic system upon a sound basis is that of lifting individuals and nations out of the tradition which holds it to be enough for each to make a success by any possible means of their own lives, regardless of the happiness of individuals or the peace, there can be no royal road to peace and order and

NOTES OF THE DAY

The extent to which the World Economic Conference can accomplish any of the high purposes proposed for it depends upon to-day's meeting of the Bureau. If the gold countries succeed in their effort to restrict the agenda to matters of trivial importance, the delegates might just as well pack their bags and go home. At the same time, it would be futile to discuss broad questions of monetary policies if the gold bloc merely use the opportunity to stress their grievances against President Roosevelt.

In the currency stabilisation dispute, there is an arguable case on both sides. The plea that tariffs and other trade restrictions cannot be discussed in their practical bearings except on an accepted monetary basis is undoubtedly well founded. Were it possible, it would clearly be an advantage to assume a fixed value of currencies. The American difficulty is that temporary fixing would generally be taken as an indication of the ultimate rate and President Roosevelt refuses to have his hands tied.

A WORTHY CHAMPION

Mrs. Helen Willis-Moody is still a peer among her contemporaries of the tennis court. In beating the English girl, Miss Dorothy Round, Mrs. Moody has equalled the feat of Miss Suzanne Lenglen in winning the Wimbledon title half a dozen times. Only Mrs. Lambert Chambers, formerly Miss Bingley, enjoys a better record. She held the crown on seven occasions. We in Hongkong, having had the privilege of seeing Mrs. Moody in action, can appreciate better than those who have not been so fortunate, the gallant game Miss Round must have played. In taking a set from the world's champion, the English girl accomplished something which dozens of players in almost every country have been attempting to do for six years. By their displays on Saturday, both women contributed towards enhancing the reputation of tennis.

IRISH TARIFFS

There is apparently to be no abatement of the economic war between England and the Irish Free State. The move to make permanent emergency tariffs introduced in the course of the campaign can only have the effect of prejudicing any faint chance of rapprochement. The damage already done in Ireland by the closing of England's markets will be intensified. While there was a chance of an amicable settlement, merchants were reluctant to break off their Irish connections completely and conducted a restricted business. The new development will destroy many of the remaining links and the greatest sufferer will be Ireland. De Valera still dreams that he can make the Free State economically independent. We can only trust he will wake up before the country is entirely impoverished.

WELLINGTON IN SPAIN

It is rather startling to learn that the present Duke of Wellington is really a grandee of Spain and that the grandson of the hero of Waterloo bears the sonorous title of Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo. Most people would possibly still be ignorant of the fact were it not for the present activities of the Cortes. Republican Spain is gradually confiscating the estates of the deposed landed aristocracy, and, according to an article in The Times, only a protest by the British Government prevented seizure of the considerable lands owned by the Duke of Wellington in Spain. For pushing Napoleon out of Europe in 1815 the continental powers were very grateful to the "Iron Duke," and among the honours showered upon him was an estate in the Peninsula from which he had driven the armies of France. It lies near Salamanca, the scene of one of Wellington's most strategic victories.

MODERN TRAVEL

Does travel broaden the men? Mr. J. B. Priestley has gone entirely contrary to the opinion of the centuries and of the shipping lines by replying "no" to this question. In his youth his native city used to send men on business trips to all parts of the world; but Mr. Priestley declares that he never noticed that their outlooks were any wider when they came back than when they set out. In Mr. Priestley's view, the reputation of travelling is being rapidly undermined by the wonderful advertisements that are connected to popularise it. The man at the Marble Arch, at the entrance to Hyde Park, whose imagination is kindled by an advertisement assuring him that the Golden Horn is the last word in romance, is apt to be disillusioned when, on arriving in the neighbourhood of the Golden Horn, he discovers a poster telling him that the real beauty of the place is the Marble

"A VISIT TO THE INFERNO"

THE THIRD STAGE

(By H. R. Wells)

CHAPTER VI.

When he had finished speaking, Bluecoat led Laan Kat away to the third stage, and the latter asked him why so many people were hooked at the roots of their tongues, or had their lips cut.

Bluecoat replied, "These are the people who used to take pleasure in talking scandal, and those who cursed people with malicious words."

Laan Kat asked why some had their eyes gouged out, and the eyes of others were bleeding.

Bluecoat replied, "These people were such as had no proper method of distinguishing between honourable and mean conduct, and did not keep good men before their eyes as their examples."

When asked why some had their arms and legs cut off, and others had their fingers chopped off, he replied, that this class of person used to steal things in secret, or brought false accusations against other people; and as to those whose feet were cut off or others whose feet were cut away at the heels, they had practised kidnapping or had offended by leading others into evil ways.

Some too who had their breasts cut off or their chests cut open were people who had been braggarts and compelled others to do wrong.

Others again had their hearts cut out and their viscera drawn. These had been cheats and deceivers whose errors had been playing false tricks on others.

There were some who were hooked in the back by weighing hooks and some whose faces had been cut off with knives. These were people who had no backbone or will to do good and did not persevere in their work and who had no sense of shame, i.e., those who did not think about their faces.

Some had their lips moistened with molten brass, and others had filth thrown over their bodies. These were people who had coveted unjust gains, not considering their bad name.

Ting Laan-kat said, "Seeing people in this condition arouses the sense of pity in one."

Bluecoat replied, "You think of them with pity, but in Hong, the King of Hades, thinks that their actions have been hateful because they had no pity on others."

Ting Laan-kat said, "I think the most hateful kind of sin is robbery, when people plan to take away the money of others or kill men or bring terrible hardship upon them which is most difficult to bear. What part of Hell do such people go to?"

Bluecoat said, "There are many types of robbers. They cannot all be classified as if they were only of one type, or put into one category."

Some are strong, others are weak, some rob openly and others steal secretly, some are very fierce and others are of a fearful disposition, some commit many offences and others very few. So, although they are all called robbers or thieves, their guilt is in some cases heavier, and in some cases lighter.

"Most of the robbers are in the ninth grade where the tree of swords and the knife mountain are. The others are in different grades of Hell."

"When men are alive their sins are determined by the laws of the king and country. Sometimes they are punished by sickness or crippling, or by the loss of their property such as fields and gardens; or by the death of their wives and sons or by the unflinching conduct of their sons and grand-children. These various punishments come to men."

"If a man's personal sin is very great or his sin has not been fully punished on earth, then there is a method of Hell to complete the punishment."

"Again, if one's family is not peaceable and one's fortune not favourable, this may be due to his sins in a former existence: he had not made any preparation in advance for blessing in this life or incarnation, and may not be entirely connected with the deeds of this present life."

Ting Laan-kat replied, "You describe all this so clearly and fully, it is evident that you understand the whole problem."

CHAPTER VII.

THE FOURTH
STAGE

They then went on to see the fourth hell or grade, and here they saw people being put into a mill and ground, so that blood and water flowed out of the mortar.

Other people were put into a pit or mortar and pounded as rice is hulled in such pits, and as they were struck by the great pestle splinters of their flesh flew up.

Laan Kat asked what sins these people had committed that they should receive such dreadful punishment.

Bluecoat replied that these were people who had no proper feelings and did not consider their fathers and mothers, and disobedient sons who angered their parents.

Laan Kat asked why those who were unflinching should receive terrible retribution like this.

Bluecoat replied, "Fidelity is the chief virtue amongst men, and therefore it is clear that un-fidelity must be the worst type of bad conduct."

"When one experiences the deep love of one's parents, and ignores or forgets it, this is the basest ingratitude. To forget the love and kindness, not following their wishes, ignoring their commands and daring to disobey them, this is to despise one's parents."

"Despising a ruler is a sin punished in the world by decapitation. Is there no law against despising parents?"

"A ruler gives a title to his officer, but does not necessarily give his heart's blood; but parents in their behaviour to their sons from the time of their infancy until they are grown up, how much of their heart's blood do they expend on a child? And how

The Very Idea!

A FAIRY TALE

By Eddie Kelly, Fairy.

This being as far away from the season of Yuletide tales as it is possible to get, we are going to tell one. And you needn't try to stop us even if you have heard it.

Once upon a time a poor old man, feeling near his end, and being thoroughly fed up with them anyway, called his three sons to him and sent them out into the cold hard world to seek their fortunes, or the fortunes of anyone who wasn't looking.

To the eldest he gave all his money, mainly because he had been an undischarged bankrupt for years and dare not have any himself. To the second he gave the faithful old family car, but to the youngest all he could offer was his blessing—and the major part of a bottle of home-made wine he had tried a long time ago and with which he had nearly poisoned himself.

As usual, the eldest son had not gone very far through the wood when he met an old woman who asked him for alms. He asked her very rudely why she did not go into domestic service, and passed on. She later accosted the second and prayed for a lift in his car, but narrowly escaped being run over as he had heard that tale before.

By now you know, of course, that she was a fairy in disguise, and you probably expect that further on the eldest son met some robbers who beat him and stole his money, while the second got locked up for dangerous driving on the public highway.

Nothing like that happened. The eldest bought a typewriter and a lot of secondhand medical books with his money and became a famous modern novelist with a following of thousands.

It was the second who met the robbers, and they had been looking for somebody exactly like him. They were a smash-and-grab gang, and they offered him a share in the proceeds if he'd work with them. He did, and grew nearly as rich as his brother, if not quite so famous.

The youngest boy, as might be expected of him, greeted the supposed old lady kindly and offered her refreshment from the bottle of home-made wine. Immediately she appeared to him in her true shape—and as she was attired like a non-stop chorus girl this is no figure of speech—waved her wand rather unsteadily and prepared to do him a good deed in return for his kindness.

Unfortunately that tectotal wine had been fermenting, and she could see two youngest sons so that her first spell was wasted on the wrong one, and when she fastened on to the real one her magic got all mixed up, and instead of transforming him into a handsome and wealthy prince, she turned him into one of those fellows who stand at cross-roads and direct the traffic.

Then, one day, when he was absent-mindedly recalling some of the beatliest passages in one of his brother's nastiest books to the neglect of his duty, his second brother's car ran over him and flattened him.

Which only shows you the danger of talking to strange females in a wood.

THE SINGING FOOL

Benny Proulx, who, in between riding ponies at Happy Valley, looks after the interests of United Artists' films in Hongkong, tells us that Al. Jolson has caused a stir with his latest picture, "Hallelujah, I'm a Tramp," because it is recorded with "rhythmic dialogue." This is hailed as something new, and something that will revolutionise films. We haven't seen the picture, but it sounds to us as if old Shakespeare (Bill, to his friends) used rhythmic dialogue long before Al. went over to talkies.

We don't know how rhythmic dialogue is written, but we imagine that in modern talkies it will be—di-dum-di-dum-di-dum-di-dum along like this:—

"You dirty skunk, you pinched my girl."

"You can't say that, old pal, old pal."

"Double-crossed me, got my Jane!"

"She left you flat!"

"She didn't so!"

"She did, you mutt."

"Oh yeah!"

"See you!"

"Two-timing me, you so-called pal."

"I'll sock your jaw."

"That would be grand."

"You're yaller, huh? Take off that coat."

"Say, buddy, are you really working for the city or for the State?"

Riviera's English Colony

TO BE EXHIBITED IN 1934

Nice. "The English Colony" on the Riviera since the 18th Century. Such is the title of an exhibition which is to be held at the famous Massena Museum here during the winter of 1934. The exhibition will aim at recalling the English tourist movement on the Riviera since its earliest days. All the most prominent visitors to the sunny Mediterranean shores, from members of the royal family to leading artists and writers, will be recalled.

The museum is seeking the collaboration of all British residents on the Riviera in order to make the exhibition, which will be held in February, March and April, 1934, as interesting as possible.—Reuter.

gold reserves should be put at the disposal of other gold-using countries.—Reuter.

PROTECTING GOLD MONEY

Paris, July 8. The Governors of the Central Banks of the Gold Bloc countries, together with Mr. Ian Fraser, head of the Bank of International Settlements, are now conferring on measures to curb exchange fluctuations so as to keep currencies firm and steady on gold. A communiqué is being issued later.—Reuter.

Scheme Succeeds.

Paris, July 8. The Gold Bloc has drawn up a cut and dried scheme to defend their currencies. A common fund has been created, and this will be thrown into the market wherever speculation threatens gold currencies. The presence at the Conference of Mr. Ian Fraser, the American head of International Settlements, is interpreted as meaning that the Basel Bank will act as "liaison officer," and is also calculated to reassure Great Britain of the friendliness of the United States towards sterling in its relation to the dollar.—Reuter.

Agreement Reached.

Paris, July 9. A complete agreement has been reached between the gold countries at a Bankers' meeting on technical ways and means of maintaining their currencies on the Gold Standard proposals. The agreement will be put into effect forthwith.—Reuter.

UNANIMOUS DECISION.

Paris, July 9. A later communiqué states that the exchange of views between the gold countries has resulted in a complete agreement. The agreement covers all means of giving full and practical efficiency to the declaration of the Gold Standard governments, favouring a complete maintenance of the gold standard at present rates. The Central Banks of the countries represented at the meeting will immediately put into application the technical arrangements, details of which were agreed upon at the meeting.

Authority Not Required

It is pointed out that the banks represented at the meeting held between them over 40 per cent of the gold reserves of the world. Their decisions were unanimous, but they will not reveal the nature of the technical measures they intend to apply.

The banks do not require the authority of the various governments but, on the other hand, they are giving practical effect to the decision already taken by the governments of their respective countries.

They will now sign the protocol, thus placing their decision on record.—Reuter.

STILL GOING STRONG.

ROCKEFELLER CELEBRATES HIS NINETY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY

New York, July 9. Optimistic and hale, John D. Rockefeller celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday today. All the Rockefeller family, to the second and third generations, joined in the family dinner.

NEW GERMAN STAMPS

VALUES IN TWO COLOURS

'EBERT' TOKENS REPLACED

Berlin. The disappearance of the head of Friedrich Ebert, the first president of the German Republic, who as a Socialist, is a criminal in Nazi eyes; and

The introduction of values printed in two colours, will be the main features of the new German stamps to be issued shortly. The stamps will all bear the medallion-like portrait of President Hindenburg which has become familiar through its appearance on a few values this year, and will be of the following colours:

3 pfennig, yellow-brown;
4 pfennig, dark-blue-grey;
5 pfennig, light green;
6 pfennig, dark green;
8 pfennig, orange;
10 pfennig, brown;
12 pfennig, dark red;
15 pfennig, claret;
20 pfennig, light blue;
25 pfennig, blue;
30 pfennig, olive green;
40 pfennig, red-violet;
50 pfennig, dark green and black;
60 pfennig, claret and black;
80 pfennig, dark blue and black;

and 100 pfennig, (1 mark) ochre and black.

The 4, 12 and 40-pfennig stamps of the new design, but in light-blue, orange and violet respectively, which replaced the "Ebert" ones about two months ago, have thus had a comparatively short existence.—Reuter.

SOVIET BICYCLES

ANNUAL OUTPUT OF 60,000

Moscow. The bicycle factory which was opened here last September with the technical assistance of the Birmingham Small Arms Co. now has an annual output of 60,000 bicycles according to statistics just issued.

A number of the Soviet workers were sent to England for special training. It is hoped that, in the future, the plant will be expanded to produce 120,000 machines a year.—Reuter.

RAILWAY HOLD UP.

DUTCH MINISTER PROTESTS TO SOVIET

Moscow, July 9. The Consul for the Netherlands yesterday called on M. Lishagoren, Chairman of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and insisted upon a settlement of foreign experts at the Programichaya station.

M. Lishagoren has readily agreed to the conveyance of the goods back to Harbin.—Reuter.

FRANCE TO PAY

RETIRING HALF OF BRITISH LOAN

Paris, July 9. Public finances are satisfactory enough to repay half of the recent British loan of £30,000,000 by the end of July, stated M. Daladier, addressing his constituents to-day and referring to the French foreign policy.

He emphasised the fact that French diplomacy was in friendly and constant liaison with great Britain. France, he said, was convinced that the return of economic stability depended upon the stability of currencies. This thesis, defended in London, must triumph in order that agreements between producers, which remain one of the surest remedial measures for the world crisis could be concluded.

The Government was anxious to effect the rationalisation of markets within the French empire to avoid useless competition, he said.—Reuter.

DOLLAR STEADIER.

GOLD CURRENCIES FIRM AGAINST STERLING

London, July 8. The American dollar was much less feverish on the Exchange to-day. After closing at 4.71½ last night, it receded slightly to 4.74 at the end of to-day's session.

The only feature was the firming of gold currencies against sterling, due to offerings of the latter from the Continent.

German marks firmed up to 13.88½ as compared with 13.93½ last night. The general impression in the United States, according to the well-informed New York Journal of Commerce, is that the pound-dollar rate will be stabilised at least, temporarily, when the pound reaches parity.

Traders believe that the United States Treasury is taking an active part in the exchange market and has converted some balances into sterling to keep the dollar down.—Reuter.

YOUNG MARSHAL AT THE VATICAN.

HAS AUDIENCE WITH THE POPE

Rome, July 8. His Holiness the Pope granted an audience to Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang at the Vatican to-day.

The Chinese Foreign Minister, Mr. T. V. Soong, is due in Rome to-day. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang will not, however, return to China with Mr. Soong.

Mr. Soong is spending the week-end in Paris, and will return to London on Monday. He is not expected to visit Geneva until the middle of the week.

The visit to Geneva is not likely to be connected with business as there are at present no delegates there.—Reuter.

Soong at Geneva. London, July 9. Mr. T. V. Soong, contrary to expectations, is flying to Geneva to-day.—Reuter.

BRITISH ATHLETICS.

Two Records Smashed At A.A.A. Meeting.

LEHTINEN'S FEAT.

London, July 8. Two records went by the board at the British A.A.A. Meeting which was continued at the White City to-day. Lehtinen, the Finnish Olympic runner who created such a stir at the Los Angeles Olympiad, broke the British record for the Three Miles in the time of 14 mins. 9 1/5 secs, beating Cerati of Italy by 200 yards.

The other record shattered was the Putting-the-Weight event, which was won by Hellas of Poland. Facelli and Lord Burghley, the two old rivals, had another tussle in the 440 yards hurdles, which was won by the Italian by a yard and a half in 53 3/5 secs.

In the two miles walk, Cooper of Britain, holder of the championship, retained the title covering the distance in 13 mins. 30 4/5 seconds.

Holden of Britain carried off the six miles championship, winning in 30 minutes 32 1/5 seconds. The Marathon went to Robertson of Scotland. Robertson was the holder and his time was two hours, 43 minutes 12 1/5 seconds.

Hop-Step-and-Jump, Blankers of Holland covering a distance of 48 yards 2 1/2 feet. Results were as follow: 880 Yards.—1, Whitehead; 2, Scrimshaw; 3, Pearce. Won by a yard in 1 min. 54 1/5 secs.

Javelin Throw.—1, Abell (Northern Champion). Distance—169 ft. 1 1/2 ins.

120 Yards Hurdles.—1, D. O. Finlay; 2, Harper. Won by 3 Yards in 16 secs.

One Mile.—1, R. H. Thomas; 2, Price. Won by 20 Yards in 4 mins. 14 1/5 secs.

440 Yards Hurdles.—1, L. Facelli (Italy); 2, Lord Burghley. Won by 1 1/2 Yards in 53 3/5 secs.

Putting the Weight.—1, Hellas (Poland); 2, Howland. Distance 51ft. 8 1/2 ins. (British record) and 45ft. 4 1/2 ins.

Long Jump.—1, Balogh (Hungary). Distance: 23ft. 2 1/2 ins.

100 Yards.—1, Saunders (Southern champion). Time: 9 1/10 secs.

Three Miles.—1, Lehtinen (Finland); 2, Cerati (Italy). Won by 200 Yards in 14 mins. 9 1/5 secs. (British record).

220 Yards.—1, Berger (Holland); 2, F. P. Reid. Won by 1 1/2 Yards in 22 secs.

High Jump.—1, Bodosi (Hungary). Height: 6 ft. 3 ins.

Two Miles Steeplechase.—1, Isallo (Finland); 2, G. H. Batley (Britain); 3, Drew (Britain). Won by 200 Yards in 10 mins. 63 1/5 secs.

Quarter Mile.—1, Wolff (Britain). Time: 49 secs. (Championship record).

Quarter Mile Relay.—1, Preussen Krefeld (Germany). Time: 43 secs.

Polo Vault.—1, Innocenti (Italy). Height: 12 ft. 6 1/2 ins. —Reuter.

VARITY ATHLETICS.

Harvard and Yale Beat Oxford and Cambridge.

Cambridge, Mass., July 9. Harvard and Yale Universities defeated Oxford and Cambridge Universities in an athletic meet here to-day. The American Varsity and the Oxoniens and Cantabrigians gained six victories each in the event, but Harvard and Yale gained victory through nine second places against the visitors' three.

No fewer than five records were broken at the meet, of which the British runners claimed four.—Reuter.

MEXICAN CYCLONE.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE KILLED IN TAMAULIPAS STATE

Mexico City, July 9. In a terrific cyclone that swept the state of Tamaulipas yesterday afternoon, people were killed, and villages everywhere were completely ruined.

NAZI CAMPAIGN

WHOLESALE ARRESTS OF JEWISH DOCTORS

Berlin, July 9. The newspaper Tagesschau Rundschau has been suppressed for three months owing to its anti-government articles.

Eighty-eight Jewish doctors have been arrested and sent to a concentration camp. Jewish doctors, unless an exemption has been secured, are forbidden to treat Aryan members of sick benefit institutions, to which ninety per cent. of the Germans belong.—Reuter.

Berlin, July 9. Fritz Ebert, the son of the first President of the German Republic, has been arrested and taken to a concentration camp.

He is the editor of a Socialist newspaper.—Reuter.

Voteless Chamber

Berlin, July 9. The Prussian State Council will henceforth be an advisory Chamber without a vote.

It will consist of members of the Prussian Cabinet, and fifty others, who will not receive remuneration for their services and will be appointed by the Prussian Premier.

They will include Nazi Storm Troop leaders, and representatives of the Churches, industry, business and science. Meetings will be held in camera.—Reuter.

COTTON ACREAGE.

RECORD OUTPUT IN THE UNITED STATES

New York, July 9. The United States Government estimates that the total cotton acreage is now 40,700,000, which is 11.6 per cent more than on July 1 last year. This estimate does not take into account any reduction that may be made under the programme of agricultural adjustment by the Roosevelt administration.

The Secretary of Agriculture has not yet determined to take any acreage out of cultivation. If an acreage reduction is made, the amount of land affected will be announced later.

All States with cotton under cultivation show increases over last year. Greatest increases in the major cotton-growing States are shown by Oklahoma and Texas, with 50 per cent and 10 per cent increases respectively.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

A HEART ONCE POISONED BY SUSPICION HAS NO LONGER ROOM FOR LOVE.—Motzbeue.

A slight subsidence of the roadway at the lower end of Ice House Street occurred yesterday, when a portion of the surface collapsed, revealing a cavity five or six feet deep. Workmen were hurriedly summoned to make good the damage, and a policeman was stationed to warn traffic of the danger.—Reuter.

A Chinese boy eight years of age, the son of a sampan owner, who was learning to swim with the aid of a piece of wood near the Hongkong-Mongkok Ferry Wharf in Mongkok, was drowned on Sunday afternoon. Because of the strong current the boy missed his hold on the wood, and although a relative jumped in and succeeded in getting the body ashore, the boy was drowned.—Reuter.

FIRE EXCHANGED ON TAIPO ROAD

POLICE ENCOUNTER WITH GUNMEN

Police patrolmen late on Friday night on the Taiipo Road came into contact with three Chinese gunmen, believed, if not the same men, to be members of the gang who were responsible for the audacious hold-up of a European couple at almost the same spot a fortnight earlier. The encounter resulted in a hot exchange of revolver shots, which left all parties unscathed, the gunmen finally escaping over the hills.

The affair was directly produced by the earlier incident, inasmuch as it had brought into operation an intensive Police investigation, and the formulation of a plan for the capture of the wanted men, which might have been successful but for the quarry being much on the alert themselves.

A party of three Chinese detectives, from the Sunshui Station, dressed after the manner of the native villagers, on Friday night had sent ahead another man as a decoy. Carrying two substantial baskets slung from a bamboo pole, by 10.45 p.m. the decoy was between the 3 1/2 and 4 1/2 mile stone on the Taiipo Road and approaching the identical spot at which the earlier hold-up was staged.

Followed, at a distance of about 20 yards, by the trio of detectives, he had just rounded a bend into a straight stretch of the road leading to a bridge over a reservoir feeder, when he caught sight of two suspicious-looking characters. One was sitting on top of the protective wall on the right hand side, and the other was standing at the foot of the hill on the other side of the road.

The decoy gave a pre-arranged signal to the detectives following behind, and fell back while the latter closed in. When they were within fifty paces of their quarry, the man standing at the foot of the hill opened a fire with a revolver. The presence of a third gunman was then revealed, when, from the top of the hill, another revolver was brought into play.

Exchange of Fire.

The detectives returned the fire, and as the three gunmen bounded up the slopes they followed them, maintaining a hot fire as they ran. In the clear moonlight, they kept the quarry within view, but familiarity with the countryside gave the latter a useful advantage over their pursuers. They soon disappeared in the dark recesses under the pine trees.

Altogether the encounter did not last for more than five minutes, with plenty of shots being fired by both sides, but none taking effect.

Police reinforcements warned by the decoy, who had in the meantime gone back to the nearest Station, were out very soon afterwards, but made an unavailing search, although the countryside was thoroughly scoured.

The Police patrolmen brought into the thrilling encounter were led by Detective Sergeant Lo Kee, one of the ablest men of the Cantonese contingent. His colleagues in the case were P.C. Lam Chi-ming and Chan Yung. The man who willingly gave his services in the dangerous role of a decoy is not, it is understood, officially connected with the Police force, but a volunteer who embarked on the case in a spirit of adventure.

Throughout the week-end a number of raids on villages and outlying huts in the district where the incidents took place, were carried out, but with no tangible results that could disclose the identity of the gunman. The close knowledge shown of the countryside points to their being local people, and not occasional raiders from over the border, as was at one time thought.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Little old Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe dream when they were struggling for a theatrical reputation as members of the old Morosco Stock Company in Los Angeles that some day they would be favourites of millions of picture fans and again appear together.

But such was the case. Lowe went to New York to play opposite Maude Fulton in "The Great", while Baxter travelled to Broadway to enact a featured role in "Lombardi, Ltd.". After several years, the players commenced their film careers, Baxter appearing in "Her Own Money" and Lowe making the picture plunge in "Vive La France".

Some time later, each signed a contract with Fox Films and it seemed inevitable that they would eventually be associated in the same production. That occasion first came in "In Old Arizona" with Baxter as O. Henry's romantic bad man, the "Cisco Kid", and Lowe in the role of his colourful nemesis, Mickey Dunn of the U.S. Army.

Now, after several years, they again are featured together, and carry on their imitable adventures of the dashing border bandit and his persistent enemy, this time in "The Cisco Kid" which opens tomorrow at the King's Theatre.

"Congress Dances"

It can be stated without fear of any charge of exaggeration that the film is truly outstanding, not only as regards the high technique of the production and its direction but also as regards the histrionics displayed by all the leading characters. It tells, briefly of the big European Congress that was held in Vienna on the eve of Napoleon's escape from Elba and his landing in France.

Among the crowned heads that assembled in the Austrian capital was Czar Alexander of Russia and he paid affection to a young girl, Christel. The film is a delightful musical comedy based on that episode; it depicts the "fairly-godmother-like" metamorphosis of Christel, her heightened imaginations and romantic dreamings, her belief that Alexander truly loved her. Amid the glamour of splendid court surroundings she spends her little hour of wonderful delight in the tune of beautiful musical numbers delightfully rendered.

In the matter of dress and staging, photography and "atmosphere" the film is a revelation of the modern cinematographic art, and the fairy-tale from start to finish. Lillian Harvey, in the principal role, creates and lives in an elfish atmosphere, contributing a sparkle all too rarely seen. Henry Garat as the Czar, Conrad Veidt as Prince Metternich are both splendid, and special mention should be made of Rigmold Purdell as Peppi—who is really in love with Christel. There is not a weak spot in the casting, and there are literally hundreds of "extras" all picturesquely dressed in the period of the action.

Aquatic camera tripods in which cameras on pontoons filmed naval craft in full action—cameras, peeping from the portholes of submarines to film other submarines in action below the surface—amazing scenes within a submarine craft showing how they operate, dive, hurl torpedoes, and escape dread depth bombs in naval warfare—these are some of the thrills in store for audiences at the Queen's Theatre next Thursday. Where "Hell Below" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's striking drama of battles under the sea will be shown.

With Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Eugene Pallette, and Robert Young heading an elaborate cast, the mighty pugnant of naval heroism which serves as the background for a gripping love story, depicted in the exciting action of submarines in the Mediterranean during the World War. The picture is based on Commander Edward Ellsberg's widely-read story, "Pigboats", and was directed by Jack Conway. Filmed with the co-operation of the United States Navy, many of the episodes were made with actual submarines in action at Pearl Harbour, the great naval submarine base near Honolulu.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION AT THE CHUN-SHING

Mr. Chan Lim-pak, J. P., distributed the prizes and certificates to successful candidates at the 12th. term graduation ceremony of the Chun-shing Typewriting Academy, the function being held at the Gloucester Restaurant on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. C. S. Kwok, the principal of the Academy in his report said:— "The Academy was founded in 1929 and has now on its roll 215 students of different nationalities, including Chinese, English, French, Russian, Portuguese and Indians.

"Of the 65 candidates who took their examination this term, 50 successfully passed the test, 25 in the Junior and 25 in the Senior. The fastest in the Senior division recorded a speed of 62 words a minute on a machine after four months' training.

Academy's Objects.

The speaker thanked the students for their valued support and co-operation, and continued:— "It is the object of the Academy to give the student a broad outlook of business and to enable him to pursue by himself a detailed study of the line of business in which he may be engaged or interested. I take this opportunity to congratulate the graduates and to wish them every success in their future career."

Mr. Chan Lim-pak then distributed the certificates to the successful students.

Successful Candidates.

The successful senior candidates are as follow:—Tao Ying Woon, Mc Caw, Lu Kai Fun, Tang Sik Hung, Kathleen Yung, Ling Yek Chau, Lee Shui Gheun, Tsang Chun Pong, Kam Yuen Look, Chow Shing Hou, Wu Sing Yee, Chan Shu Fan, Wong Kwok Wah, Chu Yu Kwan, Tsok Sa Wai, C. F. Dan, Choi King Wan, Kwok Yu Tok, Violet Lee, Lau Che Cheong, Leung Hin Cheong, Choy Yuen Sang, Tsang Wai Tai and Allen Lal.

In the Junior department successes have been gained by:—Lo Hon Chung, Kathleen Chung, Kwong Kwok Lee, Daisy Leung, Pang Si Kwong, Chan Chiu Cheong, Yu Kwok Wah, Chan Man Cheung, Au Po Lun, Shum Ho Ming, Lee Chee Hong, Li Hol Shung, Li Wai Ching, Ng Yung Kan, Pang O. Yung, Cheung Chi Wan, Kwong Wan Loong, Ip Fook Yuen, Li Fook Yuen, Lai Ka She, Chan Kai Chun, Chung Im Kwan, Chan Tak Wing, Wong Wai Man and Liu Wee Yie.

ing boats presents a thunderous background for the romance of a naval lieutenant and the daughter of his commander, which resolves itself into an unusual dramatic twist. This romance serves as a thread to connect the series of thrilling incidents occurring under the sea, on its surface and in the air.

"Too Busy to Work"

Will Rogers made his first public appearance when he was fourteen years old. He competed in a riding contest at Oklahoma and won it.

This marked the turning point in his career, says Rogers. Had he been defeated, it is more than likely that he would still be a cow-boy somewhere or a preacher as his mother wanted him to.

Winning the contest stimulated him to go on, and it led to "wild west" shows and finally to the stage and to pictures.

His advice to movie struck folks is to buy a good twelvefoot rope and practise with it. "If they don't succeed it'll be easy to stretch it over a nearby tree with one end around their neck and let Nature take its course."

Rogers portrays the star role in "Too Busy to Work", his latest Fox picture now playing at the King's Theatre. Marian Nixon and Dick Powell sustain the love interest and others in the cast are Frederick Burton, Douglas Cosgrove, Constantine Romanoff, Louise Beavers and Jack O'Hara.

CHINA'S RAILWAY DEBT TO BRITISH INVESTORS

Nanking, July 8.

An official report in the Central Evening News states that the British Minister to China, Sir Miles Lampson has submitted to the Chinese Foreign Office, an aide de memoir drawing the attention of the Chinese Government to the Chinese railway debts to British interests, totalling £5,738,794 and Ts. 1,468,840, and requesting early payment.

The Foreign Office have forwarded the communication to the Ministry of Railways.—Reuter.

VEILED INDICATIONS OF NEW PUBLIC UNREST

Lisbon, July 9.

Veiled indications that all is not well in the Portuguese Republic are contained in an official communiqué, just issued.

The communiqué, referring to the activities of opponents of the present regime, declares that the Minister of the Interior, in collaboration with the Ministers of War and of the Navy, are taking measures to "dissipate the revolutionary atmosphere, which the enemies of the Republic have been displaying lately."—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Are you too quick with your doubles?

Since the bonus for making a doubled contract has been removed, many players are under the impression that it is not costly to double. They feel that if the declarer does make his contract, he only receives about 100 additional points, while if they do manage to set him one—or especially two—tricks, they receive a handsome reward.

But have you ever thought of this angle? Doubling locates high cards for the declarer, and your double may give him just the information he needs to make his contract.

♠8-6	♥J-10-9-8-6	♦7-4-3-2	♣10-6
♠J-10-9-5	♥K-7	♦K-9-8-6	♣7-5-4
♠K-Q-4-2	♥Q-3-2	♦Q-J-10	♣Q-8-2

The following hand was played in a duplicate match and the only pair to make six no trump was the pair that was doubled.

The Bidding

The bidding at most tables were as follows:

South and West passed and North bid one club. You will notice that although North holds 150 aces, he does not bid no trump as he does not have a no trump playing hand.

South jumped to two no trump and in most cases North plunged into six no trump, which one East player wisely doubled. I think the better bid is for North to try

BOXER FUND LOAN

CHINA TO PURCHASE NEW SHIPS IN ENGLAND

Nanking, July 8.

A spokesman of the Ministry for Communications stated this afternoon that with the loan of $300,000 from the British Boxer Fund, the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company is purchasing six new steamers from England.

Two of the vessels will be utilised for the China-South Seas line and four for the Yangtze service.

The Ministry for Communications is sending an expert to England to supervise the construction of the six ships.—Reuter.

four no trump and leave it to South as to whether or not he wishes to go further.

The Play

The jack of hearts was opened. East won with the king and returned a small heart, which was won in dummy with the ace. At the tables where the contract was not doubled, South tried to finesse the diamond, but at the table where the contract was doubled, the declarer knew the location of the king of diamonds and therefore decided that his only chance to make the hand was to try for a squeeze.

He returned a small heart, East echoed in diamonds and declarer won with the queen. He led the queen of diamonds and went right up with the ace in dummy.

The club suit was now started and four straight club tricks were taken. On the fourth club East discarded a diamond, as did the declarer.

The last club was led and East was squeezed. If he dropped a small spade declarer's four spades would be good, while if he let go the king of diamonds, the declarer's jack was good.

Not a difficult squeeze, when once the declarer was able to locate the high cards.

FASTING

GIRL 44 DAYS
WITHOUT FOOD

FASTING CURES

London.
A 21-year-old Liverpool girl is nearing the end of a remarkable feat of endurance.

She has fasted for 44 days.

Living in a glass cabinet
"furnished" with a bed, an armchair and an electric fan, she is attempting to set up fasting record of 46 days. If she succeeds,
she will win £100.

During her fast, she has lost 42
lbs.

DOCTORS' ADVICE.

Meanwhile, fasting is being urged as a cure for disease by famous doctors of Harley Street,
Glasgow and Edinburgh.

At a conference in Scotland
they passed a resolution recommending that special departments
be set up in public institutions for fasting cures.

Incidentally, the menu at a dinner which followed the conference was:

Creme de Soupe Celeris
Filet de Sole Meunier
Poulet Roti au Lard
Salade de Saison
Petits Pots
Pommes Chateau
Pommes Nature
Tarte aux Pommes
Charlotte Russe
Fromages
Cafe, Cigarettes, Cigars.

400 YEAR OLD CURSE

STILL RESTS ON A FAMILY

London.

"Mark ye, my master—ye that take God's holy land and use it for your carnal purposes—God's curse shall be upon ye, and your name shall be wiped out of the land by fire and water."

Two old ladies, living in a moated manor near Norfolk, are the sole survivors of a family cursed with this curse over four hundred years ago.

They are the descendants of Sir
Anthony Browne, upon whom Henry VIII bestowed Battle Abbey after he had wrested it from the monks who had owned it since its foundation by William the Conqueror in 1067 to celebrate the Battle of Hastings.

While Sir Anthony and his friends were celebrating their good fortunes with a great banquet, a knocking was heard upon the gate.

A cowed monk entered, strode into the banquetting hall and raising his hand, pronounced the curse upon Sir Anthony and his descendants for ever.

FOUR DEATHS.

Within living memory, no less than four members of the family have met their death by drowning.
The last Viscount Montague was drowned in the Rhine—a few days after the family mansion at Cowdray had been gutted by fire.

The Viscount's sister and two of his nephews were also drowned.
The Abbey itself was partially destroyed by fire only about two years ago, and numerous of Sir Anthony's descendants who have held it in the intervening ages, have died by drowning.

Now, however, the two remaining

EXPRESS COLLIDES

TWO ENGINES OVERTURN; DRIVER KILLED

London, June 19.
A driver was killed when the Sheffield to Bristol express crashed into the rear of a mineral train
at Crich Junction, between Chesterfield and Derby, at 12.11 a.m.

on Saturday.

The mail train was being hauled by two engines and both of these were overturned.
Driver Roberts, Kentish Town,
London, was recovered dead from
the cabin of his engine, and Driver George Samuel Parsons, of Bristol, who was in charge of the other engine, had a foot run off.

If PYORRHEA attacks your teeth

THAT natural, happy smile of yours, so admired now—may be gone in a few years if you neglect your teeth. Pyorrhea, dreaded disease of the gums, is the price of neglect.

At first the gums bleed when you brush your teeth. Next they become spongy, tender. They hurt! They lose their healthy pink. The teeth loosen, and eventually may drop out entirely, or have to be pulled out!

Keep your smile, and the health and happiness that go with it, by protecting your teeth and gums now, while they are sound. Use the one dentifrice scientifically designed to prevent this ugly disease.

Forhan's for the Gums is more than an ordinary tooth paste; it cleans and whitens your teeth, keeps gums firm and healthy, and when used regularly, prevents pyorrhea.

MORE THAN A TOOTH PASTE—IT PREVENTS PYORRHEA

Start today. Just brush your teeth every morning and night with Forhan's for the Gums. It will save your smile for years to come and insure your health, too!

Don't gamble with Pyorrhea; 4 out of 5 past 40, and thousands younger, are its victims.

Forhan's for the Gums is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., specialist in mouth diseases. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Astringent developed by Dr. Forhan and used by dentists throughout the world in the treatment of pyorrhea.

FOR THE GUMS

YOUR CHILDREN

Mothers, Too, Learn By Experience

By Olive Roberts Barton

Let me begin to-day with an apology. It is this. In my articles I frequently criticize the methods of "certain" mothers. I do this without animus or indictment. I find, however, that by calling attention to the mistakes of other people (and I include myself in this, for no mother is infallible) there are brought home to us many things we may avoid. Very often it happens that certain mistakes of our own would never occur to us unless someone called to our attention the fact that someone else has done it too.

Some of the things I criticize most are done by women I like best. Some of them are things I do, or have done, myself until I had my own eyes opened. And I still make many mistakes. As my children grow older I see, every day, where I should like to go back and correct things I did not know about at the time.

"I Was the Mrs. Brown"

Not long ago I talked to a woman who was sure I had her in mind when I wrote a certain article. When I discovered what the article was about I laughed. "My dear!" I cried, "There is only one person on earth who could possibly be offended by that story and that

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

FASHIONABLY FURRED

Hollywood Keeps Smart Shoulders Under Cover

Irene Ware

Hollywood.—Covered shoulders, are the order of the day and night.

Irene Ware wears a white crepe evening gown which has sable fashioning the shoulders, over twisted shoulder straps of velvet and white crepe that extend down to girdle line.

Loretta Young, wore a pale blue satin evening gown with match lace fashioning the upper part of the gown, standing out over the shoulders like port epaulets. Her little evening hat was of lace.

Benita Hume, wore a summery printed frock, field flowers against a white background, with the little cap sleeves and the whole bottom of the frock finished in scallops piped in all the colours of the print's flowers.

Elizabeth Allen and Alice Brady, both wore black. Elizabeth's was a black crepe dress, low-square décolletage and long, tight sleeves; Alice's, black shadow lace, with white lace for the décolletage, which had covered shoulders.

is myself. I was the Mrs. Brown of that tale. I often write about my mistakes both present and past. I wasn't even thinking of you."

It is the mother who is alert to her own mistakes who makes the most progress. The one with the closed mind may see too late what she has done, or not done.

For instance a friend of mine some years ago had two girls over six years of age when a boy baby came along. She had always boasted of knowing how to handle children without the aid of any specialist or a book. She never welcomed suggestions.

She had made a good job of her girls. Finer, more straight-forward, unspoiled and unprejudiced little children I never knew, but the boy from his cradle was different. He had a will, he had a temper, and the usual methods of regularity, firmness, and kindness did not work. He was a young devil from way back so it seemed.

Partnership Proves Solution

Then, at last she acknowledged that she had to have help to con-rol him. She was willing to own that she could not possibly make the grade alone.

This little boy was very affectionate. He was also very, very intelligent. Said I, "You have a child who will mature mentally very quickly. Naturally he will be impatient. Such children always are. Be careful that he does not become impatient with you. You can never control him. Once in a while we have a child of strong character who never can be controlled as we know the word in its usual sense. You will have to make it a partnership and gain your influence that way. Keep him very busy and he busy with him. Once he bolts, your last vestige of influence will be gone. Guide him, but don't over-boss him."

She listened. She stopped her other methods. She and the boy became great chums and had wonderfully jolly times together. She was on the verge of losing him, but she went for help in time and took advice. The only way to reach that child was through a fifty-fifty friendship and a rein made of rubber instead of leather.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST HONGKONG

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?" (1 Cor. 10:16).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come. Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord. But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. . . . Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth." (1 Cor. 11:26-28.5.8).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If we feel the aspiration, humility, gratitude, and love which our words express,—this God accepts; and it is not wise to try to deceive ourselves or others, for 'there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed.' . . . We should examine ourselves and learn what is the affection and purpose of the heart, for in this way only can we learn what we honestly are." (p.8.)

JAPANESE DUMPING.

GERMAN EXPORTERS CANNOT HOPE TO COMPETE

Berlin, July 8.

The dumping of Japanese goods in Germany during recent months is causing anxiety at Hamburg.

Japanese firms are also gaining a footing in Germany's foreign markets, with the result that business prospects for German exporters to China, India, Africa and Australia have become difficult.

In many cases German firms have had to give up the competition because they are unable to compete with Japanese prices.

It is argued that European and American exporting States should come to an agreement with Japan to bind the latter to more normal competition.—Reuter.

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONICA O'DARE, 30 and beautiful, is in love with DAN GARDIGAN, heir to a local fortune. They are secretly engaged. BILL O'DARE, worried his mother by planning to marry ANJIE GILLES, who has not yet got her divorce.

SANDRA LAWRENCE, who pretends to be Monica's friend, is trying to win Dan from her. Sandra, a divorcee, two servants and they try to kidnap her. She escapes. Dan's mother and sister plan a trip to Wyoming and ranch. Sandra is to accompany them. Dan does not want to go but finally is persuaded.

MISS ANJIE COREY, an old friend of the O'Dares, inherits $50,000 and asks Monica to go to Europe with her. CHARLES EUSTACE, newcomer to town, pays Monica attention. She is not interested, willing and waiting for a letter from Dan.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Sandra said, "You've been awfully sweet to me, Danny." Her voice broke a little on the words. She was leaning against the fireplace, the sweep of gray stone behind her throwing into high relief the perfect contour of her honey coloured head. The flames from the big logs threw shadows on the blue velvet lounging pajamas she wore and Dan thought, quite idly, that she made a graceful picture. He was in riding clothes, casual and smartly western even to the big handkerchief knotted about his throat. They were alone—except for the Chinese servants. His mother and the rest of the party had gone to see a picture show at Benning, eight miles away.

"It's all right," he said rather awkwardly. "Glad to do anything

I could. You had a rotten time of it and you've been a good little soldier."

"Do you honestly think so, Dan?" Her eyes shone. This was the praise she wanted above all else.

"Of course I do," Dan reflected that it was something of an effort, supplying Sandra with the moral courage she needed. Only this morning his mother had said to him firmly, "you've simply got to pour confidence into that poor nervous child, son. She's splendid but she had a shock and it is our duty to see her through this bad time."

Ever since the kidnapping Sandra had been having "bad headaches" and "wretched nights." It was not, she said with a charmingly patient smile, at all like her to go to pieces this way. The others agreed and pointed out how brave she had been through the dreadful experience itself. Now—well, Sandra needed Dan to lean on, needed him at her side when they rode. She seemed perfectly content, perfectly happy when he was murmuring in her ear, when they sat at table, side by side.

"You're awfully good for me," she would say softly with a sideways glance at him. Dan felt, in a puzzled way, that he was committing himself to something without knowing what it was all about.

"Sure you didn't want to see that picture?" he said now, hoping to change the subject.

"No, honestly," Sandra said with pretty eagerness. "I'm perfectly content—perfectly—just to sit here and talk. Isn't it cozy?"

Dan agreed, stuffing his pipe and settling himself in the big leather chair opposite.

"Just like," giggled the girl in blue velvet, "just like old married folks." She shrugged her shoulders and murmured delicately. "Honestly, Dan, I don't know what's got into me lately. I—somehow I seem to be changing. This time last year I thought of nothing but tearing around. I was in Monte Carlo in October—having the most wonderful time. And now—"

Dan prompted her. "And now what?"

"Well, I seem to be perfectly contented with the simplest sort of things. Books and good friends—"

Her limpid gray eyes besought him to understand. Dan, sensing dangerous ground, said gruffly, "What about Monte Carlo? Did you have a good time there? Father wouldn't take us when we were over. Said it was a gambling hell and he didn't want us to go near it."

"Oh, Dan, how quaint!" Her laugh rippled. "I can't imagine—" She broke off suddenly to say quickly that of course his father was a dear—so upright—so charming but Dan had to admit he was a bit old-fashioned.

"I'd love to show you the place," she said with enthusiasm. "Oh, the times I had on the Riviera last autumn! It was all too marvellous. There was a count who rushed me frantically. Honestly, Danny, I almost took him up. He was the best looking thing! And there were two Englishmen—don't you adore the British?" she broke off to inquire.

"Can't say I do," said the man. "Considering that my forebears came from County Sligo, I'm not so crazy about them."

"Well, I do—simply adore them. You're rather like an English country gentleman yourself, Dan. Big and taciturn—and handsome."

"Oh, cut it, won't you?" growled Dan, pleased in spite of himself. Sandra's light laugh rippled again. "I never saw such a boy," she declared. "Just a great big bear. That's what he is!"

Dan grinned, reflecting it wasn't so bad to have Sandra talk that way to him when there was no one else around. Honestly, she was kind of cute when you got right down to it. Entertaining. And she didn't seem to have any moods—was always bright and charming.

As his mother had said, Sandra had had a great many advantages. She could chatter French in a way to excite Dan's envy and alarm since he had never mastered the college course in the language. She intimated that her German was excellent also and that she managed to make herself perfectly understood in Italian. Dan wouldn't know about that. But it did seem that Sandra did everything well. She rode and swam "like a streak," Dan said. She played a marvellous game of contract. She could sing. She had taken tap dancing and fencing lessons in New York last year. No doubt about it, the man who married Sandra would have a beautiful and accomplished wife. That was the way Dan still thought of her—as some other man's prospective wife. Never for an instant had he seriously considered her as his own. She left his pulses unstirred. All her pretty ways, her exquisite clothes, her charming imperiousness were lost on him in that respect. As an onlooker he admired her performance quite impersonally. But it was Monica, he reflected, whom he really loved. Monica with her bright hair, her way of looking at you—of telling you how she felt about something. Yes, it was Monica to whom his heart belonged. Dan had, somehow, never expected to care about any girl as he did about her. He had been cynical about love. Monica had changed all that.

"She's so darned sweet," Dan thought to himself now, forgetting the beautiful girl here beside him in the intimacy of the warm room. Firelight, setting, all were lost on him.

"What did you say, Dan?"

"I—uh—I was just thinking." He tapped his pipe against the hearth, pretending it needed cleaning. Sandra gave him a swift, appraising glance. Then she said in a low voice, "There's something I've been wanting to talk to you about."

The man raised his eyes, watchful, guarded. "Shoot."

"Who do you mean?"

Sandra gave him a limpid look, all girlish ingenuousness. "You big, silly. I mean Monica, of course."

Dan drawled, "Why should Monica mind?" He had to be genuinely on his guard now lest he give the whole show away. Sandra was not to know how he felt about

MA DECLINES

Shanghai, July 9.
Interviewed by Reuter this morning, General Ma Chan-shan stated that he had no intention of accepting the appointment as a member of the Military Commission, which was announced at Nanking yesterday.
He declared that he would not accept any appointment before definite measures have been worked out for the reorganisation of his forces in the North and for the relief of war refugees from Manchuria.

General Ma said he would leave for North China shortly to inspect his troops.
It is understood that General
Su is at present in Shanghai.

FASTING

GIRL 44 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

FASTING CURES

London.
A 21-year-old Liverpool girl is nearing the end of a remarkable
feat of endurance.

She has fasted for 44 days.
Living in a glass cabinet
"furnished" with a bed, an arm-
chair and an electric fan, she is attempting to set up fasting record of 45 days. If she succeeds,
she will win £100.

During her fast, she has lost 42
lbs.

DOCTORS' ADVICE.

Meanwhile, fasting is being urged as a cure for disease by famous doctors of Harley Street,
Glasgow and Edinburgh.

At a conference in Scotland
they passed a resolution recommending that special departments
be set up in public institutions for
fasting cures.

Incidentally, the menu at a dinner which followed the conference was:

Creme de Soupe Celeris
Filet de Sole Meuniere
Poulet Roti au Lard
Salade de Saison
Petits Pois
Pommes Chateau
Pommes Nature
Tarte aux Pommes
Charlotte Russe
Fromages
Cafe, Cigarettes, Cigars.

NEW GERMAN STAMPS

'EBERT' TOKENS REPLACED

Berlin.
The disappearance of the head of Friedrich Ebert, the first president of the German Republic, who as a Socialist, is a criminal in Nazi eyes; and

The introduction of values printed in two colours, will be the main features of the new German stamps to be issued shortly.

The stamps will all bear the medallion-like portrait of President Hindenburg which has become familiar through its appearance on a few values this year, and will be of the following colours:

3 pfennig, yellow-brown;
4 pfennig, dark-blue-grey;
5 pfennig, light green;
6 pfennig, dark green;
8 pfennig, orange;
10 pfennig, brown;
12 pfennig, dark red;
15 pfennig, claret;
20 pfennig, light blue;
25 pfennig, blue;
30 pfennig, olive green;
40 pfennig, red-violet;
50 pfennig, dark green and black;
60 pfennig, claret and black;
80 pfennig, dark blue and black;
and 100 pfennig, (1 mark) each and black.

The 4, 12 and 40-pfennig stamps of the new design, but in light-blue, orange and violet respectively, which replaced the "Ebert" ones about two months ago, have thus had a comparatively short existence.

Riviera's English Colony

Nice.
"The English Colony on the Riviera Since the 18th Century."

Such is the title of an exhibition which is to be held at the famous Museum here during the winter of 1934.

The exhibition will aim at recalling the English tourist movement on the Riviera since its earliest days. All the most prominent visitors to the sunny Mediterranean shores, from members of the royal family to leading artists and writers, will be recalled.

The museum is seeking the collaboration of all British residents on the Riviera in order to make the exhibition, which will be held in January, March and April, 1934, as interesting as possible.—Reuter.

PROTECTING GOLD MONEY

Paris, July 8.
The Governors of the Central Banks of the Gold Bloc countries, together with Mr. Ian Fraser, head of the Bank of International Settlements, are now conferring on measures to curb exchange fluctuations so as to keep currencies firm and steady on gold.
A communiqué is being issued later.—Reuter.

Scheme Succeeds.

Paris, July 8.
The Gold Bloc has drawn up a cut and dried scheme to defend their currencies.

A common fund has been created, and this will be thrown into the market wherever speculation threatens gold currencies.

The presence at the Conference of Mr. Ian Fraser, the American head of International Settlements, is interpreted as meaning that the Banks will act as "liaison officer," and is also calculated to reassure Great Britain of the friendliness of the United States towards sterling in its relation to the dollar.—Reuter.

Agreement Reached.

Paris, July 9.
A complete agreement has been reached between the gold countries at a Bankers' meeting on technical ways and means of maintaining their currencies on the Gold Standard proposals.

The agreement will be put into effect forthwith.—Reuter.

Paris, July 9.
A later communiqué states that the exchange of views between the gold countries has resulted in a complete agreement.

The agreement covers all means of giving full and practical efficacy to the declaration of the Gold Standard governments, favouring a complete maintenance of the gold standard at present rates.

The Central Banks of the countries represented at the meeting will immediately put into application the technical arrangements, details of which were agreed upon at the meeting.

Authority Not Required

It is pointed out that the banks represented at the meeting held between them over 40 per cent of the gold reserves of the world.

Their decisions were unanimous, but they will not reveal the nature of the technical measures they intend to apply.

The banks do not require the authority of the various governments but, on the other hand, they are giving practical effect to the decision already taken by the governments of their respective countries.

They will now sign the protocol, thus placing their decision on record.—Reuter.

PRESENTATION AT TAKOO

RETIREMENT OF MR. J. RUSSELL

On his retirement from the Taikoo Dockyard and Engineering
Co., Mr. J. Russell was, on Friday, presented with a portable typewriter and wrist watch by Mr. K.
E. Greig, on behalf of the staff.

Mr. Greig, before presenting the gifts, commented on the valuable services rendered to Taikoo by Mr.
Russell during his 19 1/2 years' service with the firm, and particularly thanked him for the work he had done in connection with the Taikoo Club.

Mr. Russell, thanking Mr. Greig and the staff for their gifts, said that the typewriter would be of great assistance to him when he opened his private hotel and that the watch would always serve to remind him of his many friends in Taikoo.

He also appreciated the honour conferred upon him by being made a Life Member of the Taikoo Club.

Mr. Russell hoped that continued prosperity would attend the Taikoo Dockyard and enable them to retain a full staff for many years to come.

The "Argyle" Hotel in Conduit Road will be managed by Mr.
Russell.

Lo Fat, charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with the larceny of four ounces of tin and nine ounces of solder from the A. P. C. installation at North Point, was fined $50, or in default of payment, 12 months' imprisonment.
The accused had been employed in the A. P. C. for the last six years.

Biggest
Hold-up*ALL TRAMS STOP:
THOUSANDS STRANDED

London, June 19.
Thousands of people were held up last night all over London and Greater London by the biggest tram stoppage ever known.

Shortly after 10 o'clock a failure of the electric current brought the whole of the London County Council tram service to a standstill.

Trams suddenly stopped and the lights went out.

At intervals of 100 yds. trams were lined up from Wimbledon to Clapham and Tooting to Wandsworth, Brixton, Mitcham and Streatham.

The stoppage was complete over most of South London from 10.10 until 10.35, when the engineers succeeded in getting current through again.

Hundreds Walk

More difficulty was experienced in North London, where the current failure was intermittent, and after 11 o'clock many cars had not resumed service.

Inquiries were flashed in to the Council's great power station at Greenwich from all points on the system.

By eleven o'clock most of the trams were running again, but the traffic dislocation was very great.

In some outlying districts, however, "derelict" trams, empty and in darkness, were standing at intervals along the roads late last night.

Hundreds of people who had waited for late cars resigned themselves to walking.

Sprints to Stations

Here are some of the exciting scenes during the great hold-up: Crowds stampeded for buses, and there was a rush for taxis. Suburban dwellers left trams and sprinted for railway stations. In the Kingsway the suddenly darkened tramcars in the already dim tunnel heightened the strangeness.

Passengers were asked to keep their seats while inquiries were made.

The Underground traffic multiplied to many times the normal during the hold-up.

Power Station Breakdown?

An official of the L.C.C. tram service stated just before 11 p.m.:

"Reports have come through from districts all over London stating that the current has failed. It is impossible to discover the reason for the failure at present."

The stoppage is believed to have been caused by a breakdown at the Greenwich power station.

In The
Desert*130 PEOPLE DIE
FROM THIRST

Nairobi.

One hundred and thirty men, women and children have died from thirst in the desert areas of Italian Transjuba.

The victims of this terrible tragedy are natives who had decided to leave their homes in Italian Somaliland to return to the British Flag under which they had formerly lived.

It appears that a section of the Somalis, living in the Kismayu area of Italian Somaliland, who before the war were British subjects, decided to settle in the northern frontier district of Kenya.

A large number left with their families and cattle, travelling across the country in the direction of the Tana River.

A search party for the remainder was immediately organised and eventually some survivors were found. They were in a state of collapse but were able to relate the tragic fate of their companions, 130 of whom had succumbed after the party had lost its way in the desert and run out of water.

18 POLICEMEN IN
A MAZE*"LOST" BURGLAR HUNT*FUGITIVE'S CANAL
BATH

The Swan Inn at Ash Vale, known affectionately to hundreds of thousands of Army men all over the world as "Tupper's," was the scene of an unrehearsed comedy when a would-be burglar and his pursuers became involved in an overgrown maze attached to the inn.

In the cool bar, which has so often resounded to the tread of military feet, the proprietor related what happened, while faded brown photographs of "Tupper," with his luxuriant fringe of snowy whisker beamed down from the walls.

About half-past eleven the proprietor's wife saw an unknown man hanging around the inn and called her husband, who shouted and gave chase, while she telephoned to the police. The burglar ran violently into a gate—and dived into the dark waters of the Basingstoke canal.

He clambered out as speedily as possible, and ran down an alley behind a hedge, the inn proprietor trying to head him off. The burglar, still dripping, then retreated into the maze, with the object of baffling his pursuer. In this he was entirely successful the only drawback being that he also baffled himself, and could not find his way out.

ARMED WITH A BOTTLE.

The maze is a natural one formed of light hedges, now so overgrown as to form virtual tunnels. To follow the burglar into it alone was a dangerous course, as he was armed with a pint bottle.

Passing motorists were stopped and illuminated the maze with their headlights. Policemen to the number of eighteen arrived from near-by police stations, and surrounded the maze, in which the burglar could be heard crashing round through the undergrowth, as he explored every avenue.

The police then closed on the centre. Or, at least, that was the idea. Unfortunately, the policemen also became lost, and the affair began to look like a rehearsal for the Aldershot Tattoo. Awe-struck, the non-combatants stood round in the eerie glare of the headlights while wild shouts arose from the eighteen benighted policemen as they muddled round in the labyrinth. It was some hours before they could be extricated, by which time it was discovered that the burglar had escaped.

Inventor
Of Stiff Collars*A WOMAN!

When men curse the inventor of stiff collars, they are cursing a woman—though doubtless few of them know it.

She was an American, Mrs. Hannah Montague, the wife of a blacksmith.

She washed her husband's shirts—and in doing so noticed that the collar was nearly always more dirty than the shirt itself.

So, with a sudden inspiration, she cut off the collars and put bands round the necks.

Then she starched the collars. They stayed clean longer.

Mr. Montague was agreeably surprised. He told his friends.

That was a century ago. A tablet on a house in Troy, New York, still bears witness to the memory of the inventor of stiff collars.—Reuter.

KEENER STUDENTSONE EFFECT OF THE DEPRESSION

Evanston, Illinois.

The American college student has benefited by the depression. He is studying harder says the President of Northwestern University.

He believes that student life has been battered to a marked degree the last two years.

Loafers have decreased in number. The University has taken on a business-like attitude.

In general students seem to be less reckless and more considerate, he says. They are acquiring habits of industry and thrift, that will be of advantage after graduation.

The quality of incoming freshmen last September was the highest we have ever had. Indications are that the entering class in September will be equally high," he added.

"The greatest drop in attendance has been in one course: in commercial education. That is, in the sciences." —Reuter.

"A PURE
UNDILUTED
JOY—"

"The Vauxhall Cadet is a powerful, roomy and comfortable car and it possesses two obvious advantages. One, a silent second, must appeal alike to expert and novice. The other, the Synchro-Mesh gear changing is to novices, like myself, a pure undiluted joy."

So writes this Synchro-Mesh enthusiast. Try it for yourself—you cannot make a bad "change!" Smooth acceleration, decisive braking, steering that is effortless and ample power—all these you will find in the Vauxhall Cadet.

You will use less petrol than you'd expect. Modern lines, riding comfort, luxurious coachwork, useful colour schemes, headlights and radiator slates in gleaming chromium, mark the Cadet as being a distinctly different car.

AMERICA GETS

To the several warnings that the United States is forcing the recovery pace to a dangerous degree has to be added that of Brigadier-General Johnson, America's "Recovery Dictator." President Roosevelt has accomplished his objective of restoring confidence rather too efficiently. The lessons of adversity are already forgotten. A great speculative boom is occurring in industry, as well as upon the stock exchange. Caution is no longer in the dictionary. A business revival has been started upon insecure foundations. Goods are being produced in anticipation of a demand which has not yet been created. On the contrary, wage levels are lagging far behind the increase in commodity prices and the effect clearly must be to restrict the all-round purchasing power of the workers, to narrow the field over which their expenditure may be spread. A few more of the little luxuries of existence must be forewarned to meet the rising costs of necessities. If the Capitalists do not soon realise their error, they will smash themselves. The old abuses are rearing their heads again in defiance of the industrial control measure, which has not yet had time to exercise any such control as it contemplates. Altogether, the situation is not a happy augury for the success of the measure. If the industrialists, who are expected to co-operate in the ideal of distributing the benefits of spreading activity equitably among capital, labour and the consumer, are so quick to take advantage of an opportunity to forestall its purposes, what reliance is to be placed in them when Brigadier-General Johnson has prepared his programme? Once again it has to be recognised that the root difficulty in the task before those seeking to place the world's economic system upon a sound basis is that of lifting individuals and nations out of the tradition which holds it to be enough for each to make a success, by any possible means, of their own lives, regardless of the consequences. When the selfishness of individualism is overcome, there can be no royal road to peace and order and prosperity.

NOTES OF THE DAY

The extent to which the World Economic Conference can accomplish any of the high purposes proposed for it depends upon to-day's meeting of the Bureau. If the gold countries succeed in their effort to restrict the agenda to matters of trivial importance, the delegates might just as well pack their bags and go home. At the same time, it would be futile to discuss broad questions of monetary policies if the gold bloc merely use the opportunity to stress their grievances against President Roosevelt.

In the currency stabilisation dispute, there is an arguable case on both sides. The plea that tariffs and other trade restrictions cannot be discussed in their practical bearings except on an accepted monetary basis is undoubtedly well founded. Were it possible, it would clearly be an advantage to assume a fixed value of currencies. The American difficulty is that temporary fixing would generally be taken as an indication of the ultimate rate and President Roosevelt refuses to have his hands tied.

A WORTHY CHAMPION

Mrs. Helen Willis-Moody is still a peer among her contemporaries of the tennis court. In beating the English girl, Miss Dorothy Round, Mrs. Moody has equalled the feat of Miss Suzanne Lenglen in winning the Wimbledon title half a dozen times. Only Mrs. Lambert Chambers, formerly Miss Bingley, enjoys a better record. She held the crown on seven occasions. We in Hongkong, having had the privilege of seeing Mrs. Moody in action, can appreciate better than those who have not been so fortunate, the gallant game Miss Round must have played. In taking a set from the world's champion, the English girl accomplished something which dozens of players in almost every country have been attempting to do for six years. By their displays on Saturday, both women contributed towards enhancing the reputation of tennis.

IRISH TARIFFS

There is apparently to be no abatement of the economic war between England and the Irish Free State. The move to make permanent emergency tariffs introduced in the course of the campaign can only have the effect of prejudicing any faint chance of a rapprochement. The damage already done in Ireland by the closing of England's markets will be intensified. While there was a chance of an amicable settlement, merchants were reluctant to break off their Irish connections completely and conducted a restricted business. The new development will destroy many of the remaining links and the greatest sufferer will be Ireland. De Valera still dreams that he can make the Free State economically independent. We can only trust he will wake up before the country is entirely impoverished.

WELLINGTON IN SPAIN

It is rather startling to learn that the present Duke of Wellington is really a grandee of Spain and that the grandson of the hero of Waterloo bears the sonorous title of Duke de Ciudad Rodrigo. Most people would possibly still be ignorant of the fact were it not for the present activities of the Cortes. Republican Spain is gradually confiscating the estates of the deposed landed aristocracy, and, according to an article in The Times, only a protest by the British Government prevented seizure of the considerable lands owned by the Duke of Wellington in Spain. For pushing Napoleon out of Europe in 1815 the continental powers were very grateful to the "Iron Duke," and among the honours showered upon him was an estate in the Peninsula from which he had driven the armies of France. It lies near Salamanca, the scene of one of Wellington's most strategic victories.

MODERN TRAVEL

Does travel broaden the men? Mr. J. B. Priestley has gone entirely contrary to the opinion of the centuries and of the shipping lines by replying "no" to this question. In his youth his native city used to send men on business trips to all parts of the world; but Mr. Priestley declares that he never noticed that their outlooks were any wider when they came back than when they set out. In Mr. Priestley's view, the reputation of travelling is being rapidly undermined by the wonderful advertisements that are connected to popularise it. The man at the Marble Arch, at the entrance to Hyde Park, whose imagination is kindled by an advertisement assuring him that the Golden Horn is the last word in romance, is apt to be disillusioned when, on arriving in the neighbourhood of the Golden Horn, he discovers a poster telling him that the real centre of glamour is the Marble Arch.

"A VISIT TO THE INFERNO"

THE THIRD STAGE

(By H. R. Wells)

CHAPTER VI.

When he had finished speaking, Bluecoat led Laan Kat away to the third stage, and the latter asked him why so many people were hooked at the roots of their tongues, or had their lips cut.

Bluecoat replied, "These are the people who used to take pleasure in talking scandal, and those who cursed people with malicious words."

Laan Kat asked why some had their eyes gouged out, and the eyes of others were bleeding.

Bluecoat replied, "These people were such as had no proper method of distinguishing between honourable and mean conduct, and did not keep good men before their eyes as their examples."

When asked why some had their arms and legs cut off, and others had their fingers chopped off, he replied, that this class of person used to steal things in secret, or brought false accusations against other people; and as to those whose feet were cut off or others whose feet were cut away at the heels, they had practised kidnapping or had offended by leading others into evil ways.

Some too who had their breasts cut off or their chests cut open were people who had been braggarts and compelled others to do wrong.

Others again had their hearts cut out and their viscera drawn. These had been cheats and deceivers whose errors had been playing false tricks on others.

There were some who were hooked in the back by weighing hooks and some whose faces had been cut off with knives. These were people who had no backbone or will to do good and did not persevere in their work and who had no sense of shame, i.e., those who did not think about their faces.

Some had their lips moistened with molten brass, and others had filth thrown over their bodies. These were people who had coveted unjust gains, not considering their bad name.

Ting Laan-kat said, "Seeing people in this condition arouses the sense of pity in one."

Bluecoat replied, "You think of them with pity, but I'm Wong, the King of Hades, thinks that their actions have been hateful because they had no pity on others."

Ting Laan-kat said, "I think the most hateful kind of sin is robbery, when people plan to take away the money of others or kill men or bring terrible hardship upon them which is most difficult to bear. What part of Hell do such people go to?"

Some are strong, others are weak, some rob openly and others steal secretly, some are very fierce and others are of a fearful disposition, some commit many offences and others very few. So, although they are all called robbers or thieves, their guilt is in some cases heavier and in some cases lighter.

"Say, buddy, are you really working for the city, or just being initiated into some lodge?"

The Very Idea!

A FAIRY TALE

By Eddie Kelly, Fairy.

This being as far away from the season of Yuletide tales as it is possible to get, we are going to tell one. And you needn't try to stop us even if you have heard it.

Once upon a time a poor old man, feeling near his end, and being thoroughly fed up with them anyway, called his three sons to him and sent them out into the cold hard world to seek their fortunes, or the fortunes of anyone who wasn't looking.

To the eldest he gave all his money, mainly because he had been an undischarged bankrupt for years and dare not have any himself. To the second he gave the faithful old family car, but to the youngest, all he could offer was his blessing and the major part of a bottle of home-made wine he had tried a long time ago and with which he had nearly poisoned himself.

As usual, the eldest son had not gone very far through the wood when he met an old woman who asked him for alms. He asked her very rudely why she did not go into domestic service, and passed on. She later accosted the second and prayed for a lift in his car, but narrowly escaped being run over as he had heard that tale before.

By now you know, of course, that she was a fairy in disguise, and you probably expect that further on the eldest son met some robbers who beat him and stole his money, while the second got locked up for dangerous driving on the public highway.

Nothing like that happened. The eldest bought a typewriter and a lot of secondhand medical books with his money and became a famous modern novelist with a following of thousands.

It was the second who met the robbers, and they had been looking for somebody exactly like him. They were a smash-and-grab gang, and they offered him a share in the proceeds if he'd work with them. He did, and grew nearly as rich as his brother, if not quite so famous.

The youngest boy, as might be expected of him, greeted the supposed old lady kindly and offered her refreshment from the bottle of home-made wine. Immediately she appeared to him in her true shape—and as she was attired like a non-stop chorus girl this is no figure of speech—waved her wand rather unsteadily and prepared to do him a good deed in return for his kindness.

Unfortunately that testotal wine had been fermenting, and she could see two youngest sons, so that her first spell was wasted on the wrong one, and when she fastened on to the real one her magic got all mixed up, and instead of transforming him into a handsome and wealthy prince, she turned him into one of those fellows who stand at cross-roads and direct the traffic.

Then, one day, when he was absent-mindedly recalling some of the baseliest passages in one of his brother's nastiest books to the neglect of his duty, his second brother's car ran over him and flattened him.

Which only shows you the danger of talking to strange females in a wood.

THE SINGING FOOL.

Benny Proulx, who, in between riding ponies at Happy Valley, looks after the interests of United Artists' films in Hongkong, tells us that Al. Jolson has caused a stir with his latest picture, "Hallelujah, I'm a Tramp," because it is recorded with "rhythmic dialogue." This is hailed as something new, and something that will revolutionise films. We haven't seen the picture, but it sounds to us as if old Shakespeare (Bill, to his friends) used rhythmic dialogue long before Al. went over to talkies.

We don't know how rhythmic dialogue is written, but we imagine that in modern talkies it will be—dum-dum-dum-dum-dum-dum along like this—

"You dirty skunk, you pinched my girl."

"You can't say that, old pal, old pal."

"She left you flat!"

"She didn't so!"

"She did, you mutt."

"Oh yeah?"

"See you!"

"Two-timing me, you so-called pal."

"I'll sock your jaw."

"That would be grand."

"You're yellor, huh? Take off that coat."

(The girl rushes in, distraught.)

"Please, tell me—I don't understand."

SLOGS DETROIT PITCHERS

GIANTS BEATEN TWICE

"Babe" Ruth, the greatest baseball hitter of the age, sent thousands of "fans" wild with delight when he three times homered to-day for the New York Yankees against Detroit. The Yankees scored a double header win, which gave them valuable aid in their struggle with the Senators for the leadership of the league.

Washington Senators retained their position at the head of the table by overcoming Cleveland.

The New York Giants were twice beaten by Chicago, being blanked out in the first game. Boston also scored a double header victory.

Scores as cabled by Reuter were:

ATTACKED WITH A STEEL SCRAPER.

FOKI INJURES FELLOW WORKER

An argument between two foks in a fitters shop in 101 Thompson Road on Saturday morning, led to one of them picking up a steel scraper and inflicting three serious wounds on the other.

The assailant, Chan Fai, was immediately taken to the police station. He was produced before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, and sentenced to four months hard labour.

Detective Sergeant Fitches said that the accused and Chung Tin were foks in the shop. They were having their morning meal on Saturday, when the complainant rose from the table and in passing the defendant accidentally struck him with his elbow. The defendant abused him, and an argument ensued, during which defendant picked up the steel scraper and stabbed complainant about three times with it.

UNMANIFESTED CARGO

SACKS OF SUGAR ABOARD KIANGSU

A fine of $100 or six weeks' hard labour was imposed on Hui Chung by Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when he was charged with placing unmanifested cargo on the B. and S. steamer Kiangsu yesterday afternoon.

It was stated that just before the ship sailed for Swatow yesterday afternoon, defendant was found sitting beside a number of sacks in which 107 pounds of sugar were kept.

Defendant stated that he was taking the sugar to Swatow for his own consumption.

GRAN CHACO WAR RESUMED

2,000 CASUALTIES IN 24 HOURS

La Paz, Bolivia, July 6. Cannons were roaring again to-day in the Gran Chaco area despite the fact that a 'commission of the League of Nations is understood to be en route here to arrange for the cessation of hostilities and a permanent settlement of the dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay.

In the agreement at Geneva to accept League of Nations' efforts to settle the dispute, neither Bolivia nor Paraguay agreed at the time to cease military operations immediately. A special commission will attempt to do that.

Learning that the Paraguayans were preparing an offensive, the Bolivian forces decided to check it with an offensive of their own. It was said here to-day. The battle has been raging nearly 24 hours and the Paraguayan casualties were announced here as nearly 2,000 men.

The Government's communique are fighting with the Paraguayan forces and that some of those were killed.

NOTHING SIGNED

Peking, July 9.

It is confirmed by foreign sources that nothing has been signed at the Dairen Conference, the arrangements being only verbal.

The arrangements reached provide that one-third of General Li Chi-chun's Manchukuo irregulars be incorporated into the Luantung Peace Preservation Corps and the rest be dispersed.

The Chinese at present run trains regularly to Tangshan and when the Japanese and Manchukuo troops are withdrawn to the Great Wall, the Chinese will undertake to run a train service as far as Shanhaikuan.—Reuter.

Sentence of one year's hard labour was passed on a returned banished by Mr. Wynne-Jones this morning. Defendant, who was banished in April this year for ten years, had a previous conviction for burglary.

A big extension of the activities of the China Can Company, whose works are at Kennedy Town, is now being undertaken. Mr. Aw Boon-haw, the well-known multi-millionaire and philanthropist, has been appointed a permanent director.

Adjourned from Saturday, the case in which a Chinese was charged with the unlawful possession of a gold watch and chain, was dealt with by Mr. Wynne-Jones this morning, when sentence of six weeks' hard labour was given. Defendant, Fowling, said that no claim had been made. The magistrate remarked he had had two enquiries on the telephone.

SALE OF DAVID'S CAFE

NEW AND OLD OWNERS IN COURT

An action brought by David Gabriller, of 15 Hankow Road, to recover $500 from Charles North, of David's Cafeteria, was met by a counter-claim for $577.55 at the Supreme Court before the Puisne Judge, Mr. R. E. Lindsell, this morning.

Mr. D. L. Strellett, of Messrs. G. K. Hall Brutton and Co., appeared for Mr. Gabriller, and Mr. O. E. C. Marton, of Messrs. Deacons, represented Mr. North.

Mr. Marton consented to judgment on the claim, which was based on two promissory notes for $250 each, payable on May 27. This amount was the remainder of the purchase price of $3,000 for which Mr. Gabriller sold his cafe to defendant.

Dealing with the counter-claim, Mr. Marton said the amount was made up as follows:—$360 flat rate for meals supplied to Mr. and Mrs. Gabriller from March 28 to May 28; $6 taken by Mr. Gabriller ostensibly for legal expenses on April 5; $24.20 chits at the cafe signed by Mr. Gabriller or his family; $187.55 for radio sets which should have been included in the stock-in-trade of the cafe.

Mr. Marton said his client agreed to provide meals for Mr. Gabriller's five children free of charge for a period not longer than three months. Gabriller was not very well off and there was some justification for his request as he had to stay on the premises until the transfer of the drink licence which was not effected for two months. An agreement was drawn up on this subject but the meals supplied to defendant and his wife were quite outside the arrangement.

Mr. North gave evidence. The case is proceeding.

the carriage of silk. In the holds orlop decks are fitted and at each hatchway ramps are provided for the easy and quick handling of cargo. There are three passenger decks, accommodation being provided at the fore end of the upper and saloon deck for saloon class passengers in 28 single-berth cabins, 8 double-berth cabins and 2 family cabins of three berths each. The cabin class passengers are accommodated in 16 double-berth rooms at the aft end of the saloon and upper decks. The intermediate passengers are berthed in a large deckhouse on the upper deck, while the third class passengers are carried on the main deck.

PLEASING DESIGN.

The dining room is situated on the saloon deck and is provided with a raised roof to give a light and airy appearance. The design of this room has been artistically conceived and is being skilfully executed. The floor is being laid with parquet of pleasing design. The saloon will comfortably seat all the saloon class passengers at one time. Immediately forward of this a comfortable lounge and writing room has been arranged. The flooring here is of rubber tiling.

The officers' accommodation is at the fore end of the saloon deck and will be grilled off to form a citadel.

Lifeboat equipment and life-saving appliances are being supplied to comply with the latest regulations as laid down by the Hongkong Government.

The vessel is being built under the survey of the Hongkong Government Marine Surveyors and of Mr. T. H. G. Brayfield, Surveyor to The British Corporation.

MACHINERY.

The propelling machinery consists of two sets of inverted, direct-acting, four-cylinder, balanced, triple-expansion surface condensing engines, forced lubricated throughout. The diameters of the cylinders are 16", 26", 29", 29" with a stroke of 18" designed to develop 2,600 I.H.P. at 255 r.p.m. All pumps are independent of the main engines.

Steam is provided by three cylindrical multitubular boilers, each 13'6" diameter by 10'9" long, fitted with corrugated furnaces and constructed in accordance with Board of Trade rules and under Hongkong Government supervision, for a working pressure of 200 lbs. per square inch. They are arranged to burn coal under forced draught.

OLD WOMAN CHARGED WITH BEGGING

A deaf Chinese woman, aged 75, who appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones this morning, stated she came to Hongkong three years before the Kowloon-Canton railway was constructed. In her youth she had money and she subscribed towards the construction of the railway. Defendant, who was charged with begging, was referred to the S.C.A. for enquiries.

A male, also charged with mendicancy, said he came from Canton because of the military disorders.

POLICE ENCOUNTER WITH GUNMEN

Police patrolmen late on Friday night on the Taiipo Road came into contact with three Chinese gunmen, believed, if not the same men, to be members of the gang who were responsible for the audacious hold-up of a European couple at almost the same spot a fortnight earlier. The encounter resulted in a hot exchange of revolver shots, which left all parties unscathed, the gunmen finally escaping over the hills.

The affair was directly produced by the earlier incident, inasmuch as it had brought into operation an intensive Police investigation, and the formulation of a plan for the capture of the wanted men, which might have been successful but for the quarry being much on the alert themselves.

A party of three Chinese detectives, from the Samshupo Station, dressed after the manner of the native villager, on Friday night had sent ahead another man as a decoy. Carrying two substantial baskets slung from a bamboo pole, by 10.45 p.m. the decoy was between the 3 1/2 and 4 1/2 mile stone on the Taiipo Road and approaching the identical spot at which the earlier hold-up was staged.

Followed, at a distance of about 20 yards, by the trio of detectives, he had just rounded a bend into a straight stretch of the road leading to a bridge over a reservoir feeder, when he caught sight of two suspicious-looking characters. One was sitting on top of the protective wall on the right hand side, and the other was standing at the foot of the hill on the other side of the road.

The decoy gave a pre-arranged signal to the detectives following behind, and fell back while the latter closed in. When they were within fifty paces of their quarry, the man standing at the foot of the hill opened fire with a revolver. The presence of a third gunman was then revealed, when, from the top of the hill, another revolver was brought into play.

Exchange of Fire.

The detectives returned the fire, and as the three gunmen bounded up the slopes they followed them, maintaining a hot fire as they ran. In the clear moonlight, they kept the quarry within view, but familiarly with the countryside gave the latter a useful advantage over their pursuers. They soon disappeared in the dark recesses under the pine trees.

Altogether the encounter did not last for more than five minutes, with plenty of shots being fired by both sides, but none taking effect.

Police reinforcements—warned by the decoy, who had in the meantime gone back to the nearest Station, were out very soon afterwards, but made an unavailing search, although the countryside was thoroughly scoured.

The Police patrolmen brought into the thrilling encounter were led by Detective Sergeant Lo Kee, one of the ablest men of the Cantonese contingent. His colleagues in the case were P.C. Lam Chi-ming and Chan Yung. The man who willingly gave his services in the dangerous role of a decoy is not, it is understood, officially connected with the Police force, but a volunteer who embarked on the case in a spirit of adventure.

Throughout the week-end a number of raids on villages and outlying huts in the district where the incidents took place, were carried out, but with no tangible results that could disclose the identity of the gunmen. The close knowledge shown of the countryside points to their being local people, and not occasional raiders from over the border, as was at one time thought.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Little did Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe dream when they were struggling for a theatrical reputation as members of the old Morisco Stock Company in Los Angeles that some day they would be favourites of millions of picture fans and again appear together.

But such was the case. Lowe went to New York to play opposite Maude Fulton in "The Brat", while Baxter travelled to Broadway to enact a featured role in "Lombardi, Ltd.". After several years, the players commenced their film careers, Baxter appearing in "Her Own Money" and Lowe making the picture plunge in "Vive La France".

Some time later, each signed a contract with Fox Films and it seemed inevitable that they would eventually be associated in the same production. That occasion first came in "In Old Arizona" with Baxter as O. Henry's romantic bad man, the "Cisco Kid", and Lowe in the role of his colourful nemesis, Mickey Dunn of the U.S. Army.

Now, after several years, they again are featured together, and carry on their imitable adventures of the dashing border bandit and his persistent enemy, this time in "The Cisco Kid" which opens tomorrow at the King's Theatre.

It can be stated without fear of any charge of exaggeration that the film is truly outstanding, not only as regards the high technique of the production and its direction but also as regards the histrionic displayed by all the leading characters. It tells, briefly of the big European Congress that was held in Vienna on the eve of Napoleon's escape from Elba and his landing in France.

Among the crowned heads that assembled in the Austrian capital was Czar Alexander of Russia and he paid affection to a shop-girl, Christel. The film is a delightful musical comedy based on that episode; it depicts the "fairy-godmother" like metamorphosis of Christel, her heightened imaginations and romantic dreamings, her belief that Alexander truly loved her. Amid the glamour of splendid court surroundings she spends her little hour of wonderful delight to the tune of beautiful musical numbers delightfully rendered.

In the matter of dress and staging, photography and "atmosphere" the film is a revelation of the modern cinematographic art, and the fairy-story-musical comedy is a treat from start to finish. Lillian Harvey, in the principal role, creates and lives in an elfish atmosphere, contributing a sparkle all too rarely seen. Henry Garat as the Czar, Conrad Veidt as Prince Metternich are both splendid, and special mention should be made of Rigmold Purdell as Pepl—who is really in love with Christel. There is not a weak spot in the casting, and there are literally hundreds of "extras" all picturesquely dressed in the period of the action.

Aquatic camera tripods in which cameras on pontoons filmed naval craft in full action—cameras, peeping from the portholes of submarines to film other submarines in action below the surface—amazing scenes within submarine craft showing how they operate, dive, hurl torpedoes, and escape dread depth bombs in naval warfare—these are some of the thrills in store for audiences at the Queen's Theatre next Thursday. Where "Hell Below" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's striking drama of battles under the sea will be shown.

With Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Eugene Pallette, and Robert Young heading an elaborate cast, the mighty pageant of naval heroism which serves as the background for a gripping love story, depicts the exciting action of submarines in the Mediterranean during the World War. The picture is based on Commander Edward Ellsberg's widely-read story, "Pigboats", and was directed by Jack Conway. Filmed with the co-operation of the United States Navy, many of the episodes were made with actual submarines in action at Pearl Harbour, the great naval submarine base near Honolulu.

TYPEWRITING SCHOOL.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION AT THE CHUN-SHING

Mr. Chan Lim-pak, J. P., distributed the prizes and certificates to successful candidates at the 12th. term graduation ceremony of the Chun-shing Typewriting Academy, the function being held at the Gloucester Restaurant on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. C. S. Kwok, the principal of the Academy in his report said:—"The Academy was founded in 1929 and has now on its roll 216 students of different nationalities, including Chinese, English, French, Russian, Portuguese and Indians.

"Of the 65 candidates who took their examination this term, 50 successfully passed the test, 25 in the Junior and 25 in the Senior. The fastest in the Senior division recorded a speed of 62 words a minute on a machine after four months' training."

Academy's Objects.

The speaker thanked the students for their valued support and co-operation, and continued:

"It is the object of the Academy to give the student a broad outlook of business and to enable him to pursue by himself a detailed study of the line of business in which he may be engaged or interested. I take this opportunity to congratulate the graduates and to wish them every success in their future career."

Mr. Chan Lim-pak then distributed the certificates to the successful students.

Successful Candidates.

The successful senior candidates are as follow.—Tsoi Ying Woon, Mc-Caw, Lu Kai Fun, Tang Sik Hung, Kathleen Yung, Ling Yuk Chau, Lee Shui Cheun, Tsang Chun Pong, Kam Yuen Look, Chow Shing Hou, Wu Sing Yee, Chan Shu Fan, Wong Kwok Wah, Chu Yee Kwan, Tsok Si Wai, C. F. Dan, Choi King Wan, Kwok Yu Tok, Violet Lee, Lau Che Cheong, Leung Hin Cheong, Choy Yuen Sang, Tsang Wai Toi and Allen Lai.

In the junior department successes have been gained by.—Lo Hon Chung, Kathleen Chua, Kwong Kwok Lee, Daisy Leung, Pang Si Kwong, Chan Chiu Cheung, Yu Kwok Wah, Chan Man Cheung, Au Po Lun, Sham Ho Ming, Lee Chee Hong, Li Hoi Shung, Li Wui Ching, Ng Yung Kan, Pang Oi Ying, Cheung Chi Wan, Kwong Wan Loong, Ip Fook Yuen, Li Fook Yuen, Lai Ka She, Chan Kai Chun, Chung Im Kwan, Chan Tak Wing, Wong Wai Man and Liu Wee Yie.

ing boats presents a thunderous background for the romance of a naval lieutenant and the daughter of his commander, which resolves itself into an unusual dramatic twist. This romance serves as a thread to connect the series of thrilling incidents occurring under the sea, on its surface and in the air.

"Too Busy to Work"

Will Rogers made his first public appearance when he was fourteen years old. He competed in a riding contest at Oklahoma and won it.

This marked the turning point in his career, says Rogers. Had he been defeated, it is more than likely that he would still be a cow-boy somewhere or a preacher as his mother wanted him to.

Winning the contest stimulated him to go on, and it led to "wild west" shows and finally to the stage and to pictures.

His advice to movie struck folks is to buy a good twelvefoot rope and practise with it. "If they don't succeed it'll be easy to stretch it over a nearby tree with one end around their neck and let Nature take its course."

Rogers portrays the star role in "Too Busy to Work", his latest Fox picture now playing at the King's Theatre. Marian Nixon and Dick Powell sustain the love interest and others in the cast are Frederick Burton, Douglas Cosgrove, Constantine Romanoff, Louise Beavers and Jack O'Hara.

Nanking, July 8.

An official report in the Central Evening News states that the British Minister to China, Sir Miles Lampson has submitted to the Chinese Foreign Office, an aide de memoire drawing the attention of the Chinese Government to the Chinese railway debts to British interests, totalling £5,733,794 and Tls. 1,468,340, and requesting early payment.

The Foreign Office have forwarded the communication to the Ministry of Railways.—Reuter.

PORTUGAL'S REGIME.

Lisbon, July 9.

Veiled indications that all is not well in the Portuguese Republic are contained in an official communique, just issued.

The communique, referring to the activities of opponents of the present regime, declares that the Minister of the Interior, in collaboration with the Ministers of War and of the Navy, are taking measures to "disipate the revolutionary atmosphere which the enemies of the Republic have been displaying lately."—Reuter.

By W. E. McKenney.

Are you too quick with your doubles?

Since the bonus for making a doubled contract has been removed, many players are under the impression that it is not costly to double. They feel that if the declarer does make his contract, he only receives about 100 additional points, while if they do manage to set him one—or especially two—tricks, they receive a handsome reward.

But have you ever thought of this angle? Doubling locates high cards for the declarer, and your double may give him just the information he needs to make his contract.

The following hand was played in a duplicate match and the only pair to make six no trump was the pair that was doubled.

The Bidding

The bidding at most tables were as follows:

South and West passed, and North bid one club. You will notice that although North holds 150 aces, he does not bid no trump as he does not have a no trump playing hand.

South jumped to two no trump and in most cases North plunged into six no trump, which one East player unwisely doubled. I think the better bid is for North to try

BOXER FUND LOAN

CHINA TO PURCHASE NEW SHIPS IN ENGLAND

Nanking, July 8.

A spokesman of the Ministry for Communications stated this afternoon that with the loan of $300,000 from the British Boxer Funds, the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company is purchasing six new steamers from England.

Two of the vessels will be utilised for the China-South Seas line and four for the Yangtze service.

The Ministry for Communications is sending an expert to England to supervise the construction of the six ships.—Reuter.

four no trump and leave it to South as to whether or not he wishes to go further.

The Play

The jack of hearts was opened. East won with the king and returned a small heart, which was won in dummy with the ace. At the tables where the contract was not doubled, South tried to finesse the diamond, but at the table where the contract was doubled, the declarer knew the location of the king of diamonds and therefore decided that his only chance to make the hand was to try for a squeeze.

He returned a small heart, East echoed in diamonds and declarer won with the queen. He led the queen of diamonds and went right up with the ace in dummy.

The club suit was now started and four straight club tricks were taken. On the fourth club East discarded a diamond, as did the declarer.

The last club was led and East was squeezed. If he dropped a small spade declarer's four spades would be good, while if he let go the king of diamonds, the declarer's jack was good.

Not a difficult squeeze, when once the declarer was able to locate the high cards.

MORTGAGE LOAN SEQUEL

INSURANCE PREMIUM CLAIM

A sequel to a loan of $40,000 was a claim for $125 insurance premium at the Supreme Court this morning.

Tse Ling Yee, widow, of 3, Bonham Road, sued Lui Min and Li Nyo, both living at 144, Wing Lok Street, for this amount which, she alleged they should have paid as insurance premiums under the terms of a mortgage for $40,000 which she loaned on November 24, last year.

Mr. F. C. E. Rendall represented defendants and Mr. C. L.
D'Almada appeared for plaintiff.

Mr. D'Almada said that when his client discovered that the policy of insurance had lapsed, she paid the premium herself and was now claiming for reimbursement.

Mr. Rendall said his clients had made an offer which had not been accepted. The premium, he contended should be subject to a rebate of 70% and not 60%.

His Lordship reserved judgment.

SOVIET INDUSTRY.

Moscow, July 9.
Spinning and weaving factories, with an estimated yearly output of over 30 million yards of textiles, will be established at Kiseri, in Asia Minor, if plans drawn up by Soviet specialists are carried out.

A Turkish government industrial delegation, which has discussed the matter in Moscow with Soviet officials, is proceeding to Ankara in order to formulate plans.—Reuter.

JULY CRIMINAL SESSIONS

ONLY THREE CASES ON CALENDAR

There is a small calendar for the July Sessions, only three cases being on the list.

The principal case is that in which Fan Hing is charged with the murder of Po Mui by strangulation at Shaokwan. At the Magistracy Heung Shui-kui, wife of Fan Hing, was also committed for trial, but the charge against her is to be withdrawn. Mr. H.
C. Macnamara, instructed by Messrs. Lo and Lo, has been assigned for the defence.

Other cases to be heard are against Li Shek-ching, who will be arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to rob, and Ng Ngau charged with breach of deportation order.

GATE CRASHING!

REVENUE OFFICERS' DISCOVERY

While searching for opium on the second floor of 112, Des Voeux Road Central, R. O. Grim-mitt and party, stumbled on a locked room. Unable to gain entrance by knocking, they burst open the door, and found two Chinese inside. On the table were wet pens and newly written po pu lottery announcements.
Altogether 2,008 tickets, valued at $3,477, were seized.

The two men appeared before
Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning, when fines of $600 or six months' gaol each, were imposed.

ADVERTISEMENT CLAIM

CHINESE NEWSPAPER CASE

The Industrial and Commercial
Daily Press, of 43, Des Voeux Road Central, claimed $440.80 from Chan Wan Hawk, of 1, Luard Road, Wanchai, at the Supreme Court this morning, stating that this sum was due on advertisements which had appeared in the Sheung Man Po newspaper.

Plaintiffs were represented by Mr. C. Y. Kwan and defendants by Mr. P. Hodgson, of Messrs. Ts'o and Hodgson.

Mr. Hodgson said he had not had time to satisfy himself that the accounts tallied with the number of insertions and he asked for a brief adjournment to make an examination of the files.

The adjournment was granted.

TSUN WAN YAT PO SUMMONED

ALLEGATION AGAINST CHINESE NEWS PAPER

The printing of an illegal advertisement in the Tsun Wan Yat Po purporting to advertise the products of the Wah Sang Tea merchants, was alleged against Wun Sing, advertising manager of the newspaper, when he appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning.

Mr. W. Thompson, Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence, said that Mr. C. Y. Kwan would be appearing for the defence, and asked for a week's adjournment.
One newspaper and a printing block were seized.

Defendant was remanded for a week, on bail of $100.

EXPRESS COLLIDES

TWO ENGINES OVERTURN: DRIVER KILLED

London, June 19.
A driver was killed when the Sheffield to Bristol express crash-
at Orich Junction, between Chesterfield and Derby, at 12.11 a.m.

on Saturday.

The mail train was being hauled by two engines and both of these were overturned.

Driver Roberts, Kentish Town,
London, was recovered dead from
the cabin of his engine, and Driver George Samuel Parsons, of Bristol, who was in charge of the other engine, had a foot cut off.
